According to North

Thieu Camp 'Obstacle'

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam declared today that "the only obstacle now for the restoration of peace is the U.S. obstinacy in maintaining the Nguyen Van Thieu administration and imposing U. S. neo-colonialism in South Vietnam."

Assailing President Nixon for continuing U.S. bombing in Vietnam, Hanoi's peace talks spokesman declared that "no brute force can prevent the Vietnamese people's fight against U.S. aggression."

Nguyen Minh Vy, acting chief delegate of the North Vietnamese delegation, told the 157th session of the peace talks that "This is precisely the reality that the Nixon Administration should have the courage to realize and thereby put an end to its military adventures."

The Viet Cong's chief delegate, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, said nobody was asking Nixon to impose a Communist regime in South Vietnam.

"The United States has no right whatsoever to impose upon South Vietnam this or that government," she declared.

Mrs. Binh said "if the United States really wants progress in negotiations ... there could be no difficulty in attaining it."

She said if there had been a serious response to her peace proposals, "peace would have been restored long ago. The United States would have withdrawn from the Vietnam war in safety and honor, and all American prisoners would have returned to their families."

Vy charged that U.S. planes carried out 22 attacks on dikes and dams from Aug. 1 to Aug. 27. He said despite the Nixon administration's "noisy propaganda" about troop withdrawal and progress in ending the war, it "is intensifying the war most feverishly."

He said this intensification not only prevents repatriation of American prisoners but increases their number.

South Vietnam's ambassador Pham Dang Lam told the Communists: "The sole obstacle to peace is the obstinacy of Hanoi in wanting to obtain total victory."

Lam warned: "There is the risk that the war will be prolonged indefinitely because the South Vietnamese population has not made immense sacrifices only in order to bow to your dictates in the end."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter, noting that U.S. troop strength in Vietnam will be down to 27,000 by Dec. 1, told the Communists the pullout "will not be total as long as American prisoners of war are held by your side."

He added: "Nor will our aerial and naval activity against military targets in North Vietnam be ended in the absence of a cease-fire and the return of those prisoners."

Porter said the falseness of North Vietnamese appeals for peace was made clear "by the fact that your armies are making war in the South—and in Laos—and in Cambodia—while you maintain your ridiculous pretense that they are not even in those places."

Vietnam Heads Pacific Agenda

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, beginning a round of mid-Pacific conferences today, put Vietnam first on the agenda, then a bid for a billion-dollar economic transfusion from Japan.

Before opening formal summit talks with visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Nixon set aside the morning for a Vietnam review with Elsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were on hand at Hickam Air Force base — a major target of Japan's 1941 attack that brought the United States into World War II — to welcome the stocky Tanaka, who was installed as prime minister only last month.

The President and his advisers hope two days of sessions with Tanaka will produce a formal agreement by Japan to place an extra billion dollars on orders for American goods ranging from jet aircraft to feed grain.

Actually, the U.S. government would like Japan to up the ante to $2 billion, but preliminary talks in Tokyo indicated the lesser amount was more likely.

Americans currently are buying Japanese goods worth $3.8 billion more than they are selling to the Japanese each year. This imbalance is one factor behind the weakness of the dollar in international money markets.

Nixon and Tanaka will also talk about developing ties between their two countries and China.

While in Hawaii, the President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduling some activities that presumably could benefit the chief executive's campaign for a second term. Mrs. Nixon, for example, was to spend more than seven hours today on the island of Hawaii, visiting good-works projects and being feted at an evening luau.

The Nixons, in what was regarded as at least a semi-political event, spent an hour Wednesday night shaking hands with about 600 Hawaii business, political and civic leaders at the oceanside estate of long-time Republican Clare Boothe Luce.

Nixon's schedule for today was confined solely to official business.

however, Henry A. Kissinger, his foreign policy adviser, described the morning meeting with Bunker as a review of the situation in Vietnam and the search for a negotiated settlement of the war.

In welcoming Tanaka at a state arrival ceremony in a Hickam hangar, Nixon said: "May we always meet as we meet today, working for the great goals of peace in the Pacific and peace in the world."

Tanaka responded by noting the increased national strength of Japan and saying:

"With this in mind, we wish to strengthen further the already solid foundation of friendship and mutual trust between Japan and the United States and to promote even more wide-ranging cooperative relations in the coming years. I earnestly hope that my meeting with President Nixon will mark the beginning of a new era of constant dialogue between our two countries."

Flying to Hawaii Wednesday with the Nixons were Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Undersecretary U. Alexis Johnson, Assistant Secretary Marshall Green and Kissinger.

Kissinger told reporters a Nixon-Tanaka communique had been blocked out in general terms in advance of the Hawaii summit, as a result of a Kissinger mission to Tokyo earlier this month and meetings between Japanese leaders and the American ambassador there.

An estimated 5,000 Hawaiians turned out to greet the Nixons when they arrived in a rain shower. Although few political signs were in evidence, neither was there any evidence of protest.

For Sedalia

Reduced Meal Cost Details Announced

Superintendent of Schools Dr. T. J. Norris Thursday announced the free and reduced price meal policy for Sedalia district 200 schools in accordance with guidelines adopted through suggestions by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eligibility in the program is determined on a family basis, with reduced lunch prices being 20 cents. Families included in the scale are encouraged by the USDA to apply for the program by filling in the application forms being sent home in a letter to parents. Applications can be submitted any time during the school year and will be reviewed by individual school principals.

If any parent or guardian is not satisfied with the application review, an appeal with Dr. Norris may be made by request, according to the USDA.

The eligibility scale is as follows by family size, free meal income eligibility and free or reduced price income eligibility:

One in the family, free meal income, 0-$2130; free or reduced meal income, $2131-$2790; two, $0-$2790, and $2791-$3450; three, $0-$3450, and $3451-$4110; four, $0-$4110, and $4111-$4720; five, $0-$4720, and $4721-$5330; six, $0-$5330, and $5331-$5880; seven, $0-$5880, and $5881-$6430; eight, $0-$6430, and $6431-$6930; nine, $0-$6930, and $6931-$7430; 10, $0-$7430, and $7431-$7930; 11, $0-$7930, and $7931-$8430; 12, $0-$8430, and $8431-$8930.

The USDA guideline includes adding $500 yearly income to the guideline bracket for each additional family member.

Marijuana Caches Uncovered in Area

Pettis County Sheriff's officers confiscated 35 pounds of marijuana from a farm about 10 miles southwest of Sedalia about 10 days ago. Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Thursday.

Raccoon Theft Costly For Two

Two LaMonte men were each fined $75 and $15.50 costs in Pettis County Magistrate Court Thursday after they pleaded guilty to "taking raccoons by force and damaging a state-owned wildlife exhibit."

Charges against Jimmie Linn Hontz and Danny A. Hackler Sr. stem from an Aug. 2 incident in which the two allegedly took raccoons from a Missouri Conservation Department exhibit at the State Fairgrounds. The complaint said the men forced the cage open.

The complaint did not say how many raccoons were taken or what the men did with the animals they allegedly took.

Fairfax also said his department confiscated smaller quantities of marijuana recently in two other, unrelated, cases. He refused to comment about these two incidents.

No arrests have been made in connection with any of the cases, he said.

He reported that 70 plastic bags, each containing about a half-pound of marijuana, were discovered on a southwest Pettis County farm owned by Richard Parkhurst. Parkhurst does not reside at the farm, and was not aware of the incident, Fairfax said.

The sheriff refused to give details about the case, except to say that his department received a tip about the location of the marijuana.

Fairfax said most of the marijuana in the 70 sacks has been destroyed, but a small amount is being retained for possible use as evidence in court.

He would not say whether his department is looking for specific persons in connection with the incidents. "The investigation is still continuing," he said.

Fairfax also refused to pinpoint the exact days on which the confiscations were made or where on the farm the marijuana was found.

Trustees Pay Dr. Boger Tribute

Members of the Bothwell Hospital board of trustees and administrative staff and Sedalia's medical community gathered some 82 strong at the Walnut Hills Country Club Wednesday night to pay tribute to Dr. J. W. Boger after 50 years of medical service in this community.

The evening's festivities were preceded that afternoon by a Dr. J. W. Boger golf tournament held on the club course that saw Dr. Robert Stockwood capture medalist honors and Drs. Joseph W. Maunders and D.R. Edwards placing second and third, respectively, and receiving trophies.

Following a dinner for those attending, the nephew of Dr. Boger, The Rev. Dr. John L. Moad, Independence, delivered the major address of the evening, praising his uncle's faithful and generous service to Pettis Countians. A parade of congratulatory orators then lauded Dr. Boger's career and accomplishments.

They included Mayor Jerry Jones, who presented the doctor with a seal of the city in appreciation for his local dedication, and Bothwell board chairman, Robert Gardner, who promised to find a "prominent place" to display a portrait of "Boger," painted by Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, wife of the Bothwell Hospital chief-of-staff.

Dr. Hopkins closed the dinner meeting by offering a champagne toast to Dr. Boger, who had favored the group with anecdotes of his long career in medicine in this area.

When he presented the toast, Hopkins said, "I give you a man of many parts — a superb athlete, hunter, fisherman, golfer and conservationist.

"A man, who along with his wife,

Audrey, has faced severe personal grief — with courage and equanimity and without bitterness. A man above all, who has served his community as a physician with such skill and such science and such art as to consistently evoke the respect of his peers and the love and affection of his patients. A man who by his conduct has added lustre to the escutcheon of medicine, and who may appropriately join that magnificent multitude of grand and glorious physicians who have given medicine its great and noble heritage," he said.

The still active Boger, who hunts, fishes, golfs and bowls, was chief-of-staff at Bothwell Hospital for two terms and assured those present, "I've thoroughly enjoyed every year of practice in Sedalia." He and his wife of 54 years, Audrey, were honored by their nephew, who Boger delivered in Sedalia, nearly 47 years ago.

Chessmania Takes Over In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 2,000 persons put up with near 90-degree heat in Civic Center Plaza here to match wits with masters from the Chicago Chess Club. Few were successful.

The three winning "amateurs," however, were typical of the general quality of play that was even more surprising than the large turnout Wednesday.

The plaza's large Picasso sculpture had seldom looked down upon such a hushed crowd. Most of the noise came from usual downtown traffic in a hurry to get to the next stop light, church bells tolling the hour, the bustle of noon hour crowds — and the hawking over a loudspeaker system by Richard Verber, a rotund chess master who helped organize the event.

But where the activity occurred, on 200 chess boards opened on tables arranged in rectangles, there was a general calm.

The masters moved between the tables, playing as many as 20 games at a time. The challengers were seated, plotting their moves, receiving occasional suggestions from those standing behind them waiting to play next.

"It was a matter of our playing a simultaneous game against a well thought out game," said Tim Redman, who, at 22, is recognized an expert by the U.S. Chess Federation.

Redman said he faced about 50 opponents within six hours. He was among the chess club's players who lost to one of three persons who won a McGovern-Nixon chess set sculptured by Alexander Silveri, retired Austrian professor of art.

"I blundered. That's how you always lose," Redman said. "He (his opponent) got the advantage. I tried to trap him and failed."

The 16 masters and experts who played from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. were surprised, they said, not so much at the numbers of people, but the quality of play.

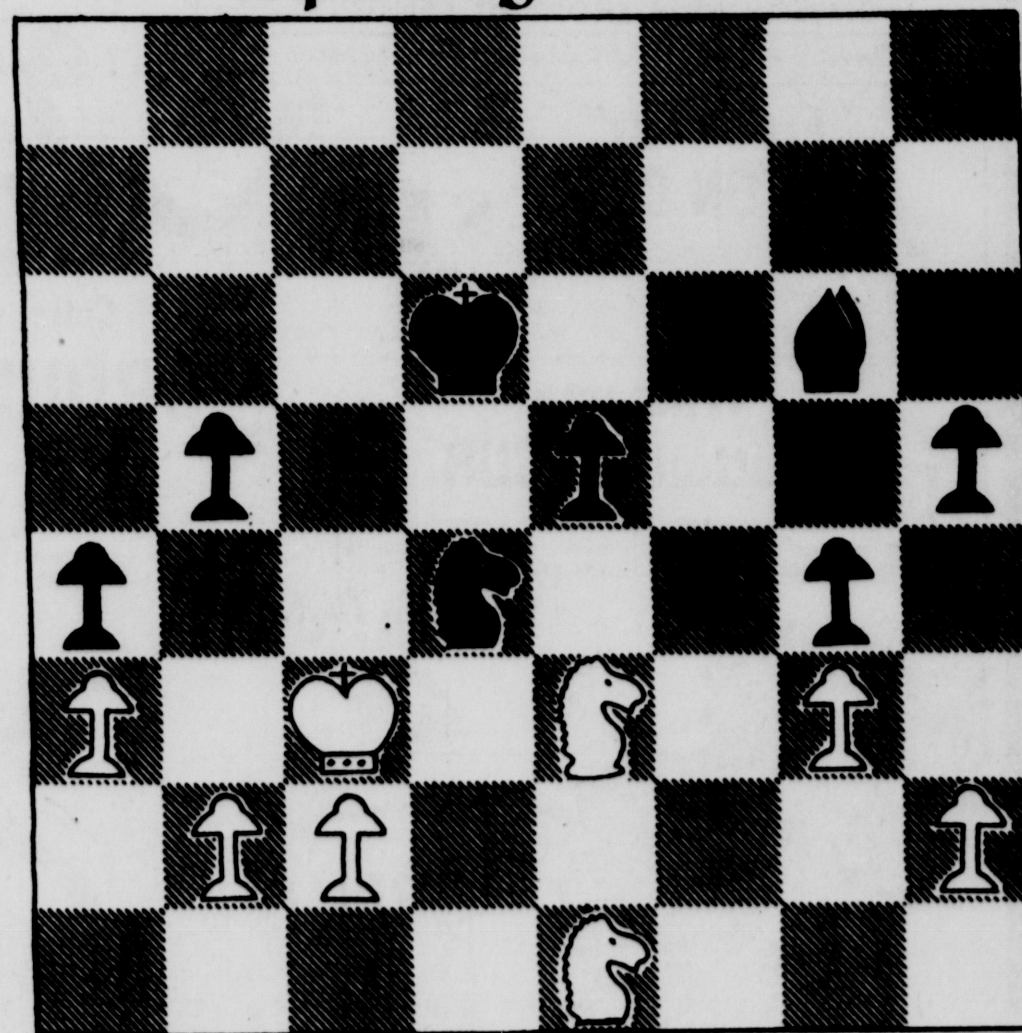

"Usually, in a simultaneous game you can expect some pushovers," Redman said. "I had no easy games."

"We had the best chess players in the area out there today," Verber said. "They came to play. Before we even had our signs up to attract passersby, there must have been 900 people waiting ..."

Verber, who said the surging interest in chess is certainly due to the current chess championship match in Iceland between American challenger Bobby Fischer and Russia's Boris Spassky, said he expected about 2,000 games to be played.

But he estimated near the day's end that as many as 3,000 were played and that hundreds of persons waited up to three hours to compete.

Decision Is Near

20th game draw against Boris Spassky after 54 moves. The 21st game was to be held today. (UPI)

Fischer Closes In On Match Decision

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Challenger Bobby Fischer and Soviet champion Boris Spassky played a Sicilian defense today in the 21st game of their world-title match.

Spassky, with the white pieces, opened by pushing his king's pawn two squares forward. Fischer, one of the world's leading advocates of the Sicilian, steered the game into that defense by moving his queen's bishop pawn two squares forward.

Fischer needs only a win — one point—to take away Spassky's crown. So the playing hall was jammed with spectators hours before the game began. They hoped to see the title change hands.

The two had been playing to half empty seats, having played a run of seven draws.

The question in many minds was whether Fischer would try to wrap up the title with a win or coast cautiously to victory on two more draws. They drew the 20th game Wednesday, giving Fischer 11½ points to 8½ for the Russian defender.

A victory counts one point, a draw half a point for each player. Fischer needs 12½ points to win the title and Spassky needs 12 to keep it.

Ann Landers

Job Seekers Must Please Employers

Dear Ann Landers: You be the judge. Our son insists that he not be denied the right to "be himself" — his father says, "You must learn to compromise if you're going to live in the real world." Who is right?

John walked the streets for three solid weeks looking for a job. He is 20, has decided not to go back to college (says it's a waste of time) and is a quiet boy with strong principles. John and his father have always seen things from a different point of view. I am sure John is not as radical as his father thinks he is, nor is his father as conservative as John seems to believe.

Tonight a friend of ours called to let us know that John had been in to see him about a job. Our friend told John that since he would be meeting the public he would have to trim his hair somewhat and get rid of his beard. John promptly let him know that he did not want the job if it meant submerging his personality and be something he wasn't.

A full-blown argument followed between father and son and, as is the case with most arguments, no one convinced anyone of anything. We would appreciate it if you would let us know how you feel about this. Could John have accepted the boss' terms without "selling out to the Establishment?" — For And Against

Dear F and A: When a young man goes looking for a job he should accept the fact that he is not going to make the rules or call the signals. The burden of proof is on him — not the employer. An employer who does not want a young man with long hair and a beard will not look favorably on a fellow who says "take it or leave it."

I realize there are laws against discrimination, but there are no laws against refusing to hire an applicant with a negative personality — and this is why John and others like him lose out.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is marrying a boy we do not know very well. His family lives in another city. The mother of the groom sent us the guest list yesterday. We were surprised to see the name of a young cousin who is an epileptic. We don't want to spoil the wedding by exposing our guests to the unpleasant experience of witnessing a fit. What can we do except tell the woman we don't want to take the chance — On The Spot

Dear On: Almost all epileptics respond to drugs which control seizures. (Please don't say "fits.") The cousin should be invited. To exclude him would be an unspeakable act of cruelty.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a column of yours created quite an argument. I refer to the one where you said it was in poor taste to print on an invitation to an anniversary party, "no gifts please."

A couple of women said you had a lot of nerve to say yes or no on such a personal matter. Frankly, I think when people ask for your opinion you have the right to tell them what you think.

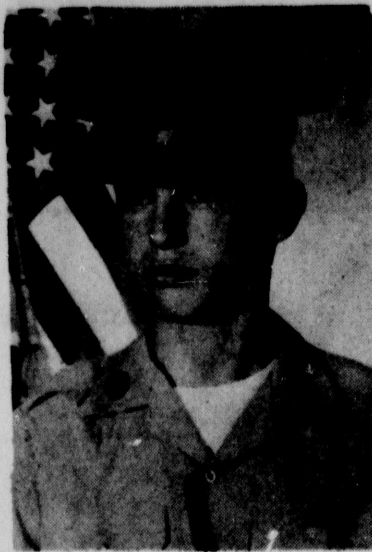

And now here's another question along the same line: I received a wedding invitation last week and to it was attached a little card that said, "The bride is doing their apartment in Italian Provincial. This might be helpful to know."

Do you consider such a message to be in good taste? Yes or no. — Just Asking

Dear Just: No, I do not.

Is an upcoming wedding driving you bananas? Ann Landers' comprehensive booklet, "The Bride's Guide," gives you the facts from the initial announcement to the last bill and who should pay it. To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped, envelope and 35 cents in coin.

$636,000 Paid Monthly in County

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Pettis County at a rate of $636,000 a month at the close of 1971. C. Kent Charles, Social Security district manager in Sedalia, said Wednesday. These payments will be increased by a total of $127,200 per month beginning with the check payable Oct. 3 due to the 20 per cent increase that was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Nixon in July.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Pettis County, 4,280 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,257 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died and 557 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Among the beneficiaries receiving monthly benefits one group, over 18 years of age, illustrates the broad family protection that the social security program provides to workers of all ages. They are the children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting.

The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to the mother if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Charles said that another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving benefits as disabled workers. Social security disability payments can be paid to a person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than five years of work under social security. As little as 1½ years of work is required in the case of a worker who becomes disabled before age 24.

Instructors Place Emphasis on Requirements

By SUSAN BULLOCK
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"Children are children first," said George Marsh, director of special education in Sedalia School District No. 200, which is enlarging to accommodate children from area grade schools. The attitudes expressed about the program focus on the individual child and his learning requirements.

Previously, special education has been limited to the cooperative occupational education program at Smith-Cotton High School. This year, space at Hubbard School has been provided for a comprehensive special education program that includes 120 students in grades one through 12.

"We will now provide for students we were never able to provide for before," said Marsh. He intends the program to adapt to the children's needs in time, space, facilities and personnel. "In the special education program at Hubbard, children will be allowed to progress at their own rate. We adapt the program to fit their needs," he said.

In a regular classroom, the exceptional child would be a failure — frustrated and frustrating to the teacher who would not understand his deficiencies, or his learning style, Marsh said. Exceptional children have disabilities that include auditory and visual deficiencies, poor motor skills and poor coordination. They may be gifted with high intelligence or they may be retarded.

If George Washington, Thomas Edison and Woodrow Wilson were alive, they would be in special education classes, Marsh said. They failed in regular school classrooms because the teaching environment did not meet their special needs.

Special education teachers help children develop learning skills that they have been unable to acquire in a regular classroom. The typical teacher is not educated to recognize, or understand a child with auditory problems or to cope with the individual's needs, according to Marsh. He described a child with an auditory disability who had difficulty differentiating similar sounds. "Ship" and "slip" sounded the same to him when he was first diagnosed. He heard the "noise" involved when someone counted from one to five, but he could not tell the difference between two and three or four and five.

To cope with this difficulty, the teacher substituted the words "ong" and "ink" for two and five. The child was able to learn to say one, ong, three, four, ink without trouble. The transition between knowing the nonsense words and knowing the true words was a combination of the two. Eventually, the child could say the numbers with only a minor pause.

The child with an auditory deficiency or poor motor skills may not lack the intelligence to learn, but he may need individualized teaching methods geared to compensate and overcome his problem, Marsh pointed out.

Special education teachers must be as special as the children they teach, Marsh said. They are educated to be creative and flexible in recognizing a child's learning style. Marsh said that such teachers must be sympathetic as well as highly trained.

In the program at Hubbard, teachers will be free to set up the physical design of their classrooms. "In any class setting there has to be structure," Marsh said. "But special education involves a flexible environment." For example, carpeting has been installed to control extraneous noise.

"New materials for programmed learning will be used," said Marsh. This is a method that involves simple exercises that build to the acquisition of a skill. Marsh said that since reading is the most important skill, varied methods of learning to read will be used in the program. "Each youngster will have a reading program tailored to his own needs," he said.

The main problem that Marsh foresees for the program is the attitudes of the parents. "They need to face the reality of their child's disabilities and place them in the best possible situation," Marsh stresses early diagnosis of learning problems. "Recovery level, which is the probability of replacing a child in a regular classroom, drops below 50 per cent when a child reaches the third grade," he stated.

Another problem is the attitude of the parents toward the location of the program. Two incidents have occurred in which parents have refused to allow their children to attend the special education program because it is at Hubbard School, in a primarily Negro neighborhood. When asked about the future of these children, Marsh said, "They will continue to fail in school. It's frustrating when our whole goal is to help the children and we are not allowed to."

Nine grade school classes will be held at Hubbard, as well as the special education classes. The children will be on the regular bus schedule, until other arrangements are possible.

Good Progress Is Noted at City Hall

Construction progress on the new city hall building "is moving right along," City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison said Wednesday.

"If weather holds," he continued, "the workers will probably be able to get started on inside work by the first of November."

According to Garrison, workers for the Dean Construction Co., contractor for the building, Wednesday will begin pouring the jail cell walls on the ground floor of the structure.

Forms were laid about a week ago for the eventual pouring of the eight-inch cement ground floor over the basement. Garrison indicated that, because of the thickness of the floor, the forms will have to set 21 days before actual pouring can be done.

Workmen have already begun laying the brick on the north side of the building and Wednesday will begin laying bricks on the west wall, Garrison added.

He explained that workmen have now caught up on their construction schedule, which was originally delayed by the lack of a suitable natural foundation.

"They kept hitting rock and then sandy layers before we got something solid to set our feet on," Garrison said.

Garrison said he felt the foundation of any building is the most important aspect of the entire construction. If you don't sit solid on something, you're wasting your effort and time," he said.

Garrison praised construction supervisor Leonard Warren, who he said "knows what he's doing and more importantly lets me know what he's doing ... He calls me every morning and lets me know what they plan to do that day."

"If you have good communication between the city, construction company and architect," Garrison continued, "most of the problems that come up can be solved."

Announcing CROW LIGHT. A clean break with the past.

Here's an utterly new whiskey.
Not a Bourbon. Not a blend. Not a Canadian.
It's not a pale imitation of anything.

New CROW LIGHT is 100% Light Whiskey. So smooth that "light" seems like a heavy word to describe it. This is real whiskey all right. There's nothing shy about it. But it may well be the most civilized whiskey ever made.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Grace Paulus

Mrs. Grace Paulus, 84, 502 East Second, died Wednesday afternoon at Fairview Nursing Home.

Mrs. Paulus was born in Winfield, Kan., on Sept. 26, 1887, daughter of the late William James and Sarah Louise Wyatt Harbit. She was married to Frank W. Paulus, Aug. 14, 1911, and he preceded her in death on March 13, 1971.

Mrs. Paulus came to Sedalia in 1904 to attend the Business College. She was a bookkeeper at the Messerly Department Store. Mrs. Paulus was a member of the First Christian Church and Loyal Rebecca Lodge 260 for more than 55 years.

She is survived by several cousins, including Wilson Harbit, 1804 West 18th. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Magee and the Rev. Richard Leach officiating.

Mrs. J. W. Watts will play organ selections.

Palbearers will be Loren Attebury, L. J. Brown, Earl Edwards, Frank Harbit, C. E. McKenzie and Kenneth Tyler.

Burial will be in Laurel Oak Cemetery, Windsor.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

Lee J. Stevenson

Lee J. Stevenson, 77, 1005 West 11th, died at Bothwell Hospital at 9:37 a.m. Thursday.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mrs. Tennessee Craddock

Mrs. Tennessee Craddock, 84, died Monday morning in St. Louis where she had lived since May. She had been a Sedalia resident for 52 years.

Mrs. Craddock, who was preceded in death by her husband, Harry, is survived by two brothers, one sister, and several nephews and nieces.

She was a member of the Taylor Chapel of the United Methodist Church and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

Funeral services and burial will be in St. Louis Friday.

Carrey A. Huston

WINDSOR — Miss Carrey A. Huston, 95, died Wednesday evening in the Windsor Hospital.

She was born March 30, 1877, in Windsor, daughter of James and Florence Johnson Huston.

Miss Huston lived in Windsor most of her life and owned a millinery shop.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church.

She is survived by one sister, Estella Huston, Windsor; and several cousins.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Huston-Hadley Chapel here, with the Rev. Ralph Prosser officiating.

Burial will be in Laurel Oak Cemetery.

Mrs. Olive B. Igo

Mrs. Olive B. Igo, 82, Route 1, died at the Warrensburg Medical Center at 2:20 p.m. Wednesday. She had been ill since Aug. 15.

She was born in Cooper County, near Prairie Home, Aug. 17, 1890, daughter of the late William H. and Lucy Shore Meyer.

She was married at Sedalia Sept. 4, 1912, to John Wesley Igo. He preceded her in death on March 4, 1948.

Mrs. Igo was a member of the Syracuse Baptist Church.

She is survived by one son, George Igo, Route 1; one daughter, Miss Viola Igo, Route 1; three half-brothers, L. A. Meyer, Route 1, and Harry and David Meyer, both of Otterville.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 10:30 a.m. Friday, with the Rev. John Steele, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Burial will be in the Syracuse Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Windsor Man Killed In Road Mishap

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARRENSBURG — A Windsor man was one of two persons killed in a two-car accident Wednesday night on Highway 13, near here. Dead are Donald W. Pickett, 38, Windsor, and Sandy Coffin, 19, O'Fallon, Ill.

Pickett died at the Johnson County Hospital here. He was a passenger in a 1968 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Victor T. Nickell, Clinton, who received a broken leg.

Miss Coffin was a passenger in a 1965 Dodge van driven by Gaylon W. Woods, Shaver Lake, Calif., who also received a broken leg.

Sharon Lynn Heater, 24, and Robert Heater, 3, both passengers in the Coffin vehicle, also were injured.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, the accident occurred as Woods' northbound Dodge van went out of control and crossed into the path of the southbound Chevrolet driven by Miss Coffin.

Pickett was born Sept. 20, 1933, in Neade, Kan., son of Earl Wallace and Marie Eckhoff Pickett. He married Lois L. Warren, Dec. 8, 1957.

He was a veteran of the Korean conflict. He was employed by Glen's Carpet Service of Sedalia.

He was a Jehovah's Witness and a ministerial servant of the Clinton congregation.

He is survived by his widow and six children, John, Anita, Susan, Jeff, Paul and Mary, all of the home; his father, Earl Pickett, Windsor; and one sister, Mrs. Phyllis Edmondson, Kansas City.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Gouge Funeral Home, here, with Ira Snyder officiating.

Burial will be in Laurel Oak Cemetery. The family will receive friends from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

'S' Club Plans Annual Banquet

The annual Smith-Cotton "S" Club Fall banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria, club officials have announced.

Reservations for the dinner can be made by calling Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter, 826-4083, or Ralph Schulz, 826-6039.

Activity tickets, which will allow club members into many S-C activities during the school year, may be purchased at the dinner according to club officials.

Speculate On Chemical Responsibility

NEW YORK (AP) — Two leading researchers reported today that benzpyrene, a chemical in cigarettes and urban air suspected as a cause of lung cancer, may not be guilty.

The doctors said a study of 5,939 U.S. roofing workers who breathe great amounts of benzpyrene from coal tar pitch and asphalt — the rough equivalent of the benzpyrene in 35 packs or 705 cigarettes a day — showed about the same incidence of lung cancer as the general population.

The report came from Dr. Irving R. Selikoff, a specialist in environmental medicine at Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York, and Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, statistician for the American Cancer Society, at the 164th national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

"If a high level of occupational exposure to benzpyrene by way of inhalation results in little if any increase in the risk of lung cancer," they said, "then it seems unlikely that the extremely small amounts of benzpyrene in cigarette smoking can account for the high degree of association between cigarettes and lung cancer."

"It also seems unlikely," the continued, "that a small benzpyrene content of air in urban areas has an appreciable effect upon lung cancer death rates."

Benzpyrene is a known cause of skin cancer and, because of this, the suspicion built up that the chemical might also be a cause of lung cancer. That benzpyrene does indeed cause skin cancer was demonstrated, Dr. Selikoff said, at a meeting with officials of the Roofers Union, where nine of 11 union vice presidents had had skin cancer on their arms and hands.

The study included men who were members of the Roofers Union on Jan. 1, 1960, and who had been members for at least nine years. One third had been in the trade for 20 years or more.

After tracing 96 per cent of the men, the statistics for the six years of the study had not shown any significant lung cancer increase.

There were 43 lung cancer deaths in the group, and in a group that size, 36 deaths normally could have been expected. The doctors did not consider the difference significant.

The study is continuing with the researchers now tracing the roofing workers for another six years.

Big Loss Is Reported By Cablevision

Two instances of vandalism and three thefts were reported to Sedalia police Wednesday and Thursday.

Thieves struck two times Tuesday night or Wednesday morning at the Holiday Inn parking lot, 32nd and Limit.

James Lee McLerrond, an employee of Cablevision, Inc., 600 South Osage, reported a portable television and a field strength meter with UHF, collectively valued at $1,014, were taken from a company truck. McLerrond told police he locked the truck Tuesday night and found the items missing when he returned to the vehicle Wednesday morning. Police said they found no signs of forcible entry to the truck.

Leo Roundtree, Whiteman AFB, told police that a 410 shotgun and a Polaroid camera, collectively valued at $141, were taken from his car between 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Wednesday. He told police he had locked the car Tuesday night.

L. D. Hoehns, 2403 Kay, told police that vandals punctured two tires on his automobile Thursday morning. Damage was estimated at $170.

Leonard McNeal, 1004 East 14th, reported the theft of a basketball net from his residence.

Georgetta Elifritz, 239 East Saline, reported her 1969 Chevrolet was vandalized Tuesday night. Police found scratches on the hood and left door of the auto.

Navy Pilot Hits Enemy Ammunition

SAIGON (AP) — Three U.S. Navy pilots destroyed a big ammunition storage depot 13 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese port city of Vinh in raids Wednesday, touching off more than 100 explosions and seven fires, the U.S. 7th fleet announced today.

Credited with the successful strike were Lts. Thomas W. Hearn, 26, of Kansas City, Mo., Russ Pearson, 28, of Wilkesboro, N.C., and David Dolquist, 29, of Snohomish, Wash., all stationed aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk.

"It was a most spectacular day for me and I was very impressed with the A7 Corsair's pinpoint accuracy," Hearn said.

"Tom got most of the target and we rolled in to finish it off," said Dolquist.

Charges Of Murder Filed Against Man

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Second degree murder charges were filed against a Cole Camp man Thursday morning in Benton County Magistrate Court.

Held in the Benton County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond is Roger Uptegrove, 22.

According to Benton County sheriff's officials, Uptegrove allegedly struck William Hampton Sr., 63, Ionia, in an altercation near Cole Camp Aug. 24. Hampton died Tuesday at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said results of an autopsy have not yet been made known to his department or the Benton County prosecuting attorney's office. He said the results should be known "in about a week."

Benton County Sheriff's Deputy Al Doty said he was called to the Omar Uptegrove farm, east of Cole Camp, on Aug. 24. When he arrived about 5:10 p.m., he said he found Hampton lying on his back in the driveway.

According to Doty, Hampton was injured during a fight with Uptegrove while the two were drinking homemade beet wine. It was at first believed that Hampton had been struck by a camping axe, but witnesses later said Hampton had been hit by Uptegrove's fists, according to a sheriff's spokesman.

American Casualties Announced

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were killed in action last week, three were missing and three were wounded, the U.S. Command announced today. It said it was the lowest total for any week since Jan. 1, 1965, when "statistical accounting" began.

One other American died from nonhostile causes.

The number of Americans killed in action was two higher than the previous week, but the number of wounded was the lowest in more than seven years of weekly reporting.

The South Vietnamese killed in action last week were put at 551, the wounded at 2,514 and the missing at 204.

A total of 3,342 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were claimed killed. The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,855 killed in action, 303,346 wounded, 1,662 missing or captured, 10,265 dead not as a result of hostile action and 118 missing not as a result of hostile action.

South Vietnamese — 153,974 killed, 401,130 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 879,872 killed.

Bombers Report Success

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots destroyed a giant ammunition depot in North Vietnam Wednesday, the U.S. Command reported today. Fliers from the carrier Kitty Hawk said their bombs caused 100 secondary explosions and seven large fires at the Dong Ngan depot 13 miles northeast of Vinh.

Pilots from the carrier Oriskany hit a major fuel depot a mile west of Vinh, while other Oriskany fliers attacked a storage area 39 miles to the south. The Command said they caused five explosions and a huge fire at the fuel depot, and at the storage area destroyed more than 100 supply crates and damaged another 100.

A third target was the Cam Pha fuel depot 37 miles northeast of Haiphong. The Command said pilots from the Midway destroyed four supply buildings there and touched off a large explosion and a fire.

In South Vietnam, Communist forces rained rockets into the big air base at Bien Hoa during the night and carried out a series of hit-and-run terror and sabotage attacks at scattered points.

The Saigon command said 15 Vietnamese were killed and 51 were wounded in the attacks. One American also was wounded, and eight U.S. and South Vietnamese planes were destroyed or damaged at Bien Hoa. Two-thirds of the Vietnamese casualties were civilians.

Two Marine squadrons of A4 bombers and an Air Force squadron of A37 bombers are stationed at Bien Hoa, or 50 to 60 planes. They support ground operations in the southern half of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Bien Hoa is also used as a forward operating base for scores of American jets based in Thailand. They refuel, rearm and receive maintenance at Bien Hoa.

It was the second time this month the base had been shelled. An 86-round rocket barrage on Aug. 1 killed one American Marine and one Vietnamese, wounded 31 Americans and 24 Vietnamese and damaged two Marine A4 jets.

The only major fighting reported was at Quang Tri, on the northern front, where a stalemate battle has been taking a heavy toll on both sides for the past two months.

Highway Patrolman Addresses Altrusa

Sgt. Milton Moore of the Missouri Highway Patrol stationed at Stockton, addressed members of the Sedalia Altrusa Club Monday at Bothwell Hotel. Introduced by Mrs. Lorene Hofheins, community services chairman, Moore informed the group about changes in highway safety laws.

He told about the new international highway signs being erected throughout the state and explained changes in laws regarding suspension of driver's licenses because of blood alcohol content.

Moore said that a picture identification license is now available for non-drivers that can be used for all identification purposes and he said all new and duplicate drivers' licenses issued now include a photograph of the licensee.

Moore urged all to wear seat belts, dim lights when following cars, use turn signals when changing lanes or passing and to honk the horn when passing another vehicle. He said these are common errors drivers make and which many times cause accidents and deaths.

Initiated into the club were Mrs. Marta Love and Mrs. Lou Derendinger.

President Miss Sue Heckart, reminded members of the annual homes tour Sept. 24. All proceeds from the tour will be given to Buena Vista and other community service projects, she said.

Nectarine Freeze

Fresh fruit in season such as nectarines melted marshmallows and has cut cherries added for color. (NEA)

Fresh Fruit Dessert Time

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A dessert using fresh fruit that is in season proves a refreshing and economical way to please hungry friends and family members. Buying fruits in season means they cost less and are at the height of their flavorfulness. For a Nectarine Freeze just melt puffy marshmallows, fold in sliced fresh nectarines, maraschino cherries, whipped cream and put into freezer until thoroughly chilled, or about two hours. To serve scoop out in big dips and surround with nectarine slices.

NECTARINE FREEZE
4 large fresh nectarines
20 marshmallows
3 tablespoons lime juice
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup maraschino cherries

Peel and dice nectarines to make about 2 cups. Melt marshmallows over hot water. Add lime juice. Cool. Whip cream. Cut cherries in halves, fold diced nectarines, cherries and cream into marshmallow mixture. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Before serving, peel and slice remaining nectarines and arrange in swirl in fruit compotes. Spoon chilled marshmallow mixture in center. Makes 6 to 8 compotes.

Officers Elected

HOUSTONIA — Bert Alexander was elected chairman of the Community Betterment Club here at the club's meeting Monday at Howard Park.

Also elected were Ralph Pauley, vice-chairman; Mrs. Henry Wayworth, secretary; and Mrs. Ralph Pauley, treasurer.

A report was given on the recent tractor pull and it was decided to have a work day at the Betterment Club building Sept. 9.

The Rev. Coleman Akin closed the meeting with prayer and hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. John Powers and Mrs. Clifford Dawson.

Club Note

Sedalia Susans China Painters met Saturday at the Sedalia Public Library with Mrs. Lucille Schmidt of St. Louis who demonstrated the art of painting porcelains.

Social Calendar

MONDAY
Missouri Pacific Women's Club will meet at 6 p.m. at State Fair Restaurant.

TUESDAY
State Fair Kennel Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Missouri State Bank.

AMERICAN BUSINESS WOMEN'S
Association will meet at 6:45 p.m. at Flat Creek Inn.

Mrs. Schmidt explained the use of flake white and mitzi white and the art of mixing enamels. She suggested that one of the best mixing mediums is one pint light mineral oil, ½ ounce clove and ½ ounce lavender oil.

Mrs. Dorothy Boyd, state treasurer, discussed the state convention which will be held next April in Sedalia.

Discussion of the annual fall china show and sale was conducted and a planning committee was appointed.

Writes Book on Women

By PEACE MOFFATT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joyce Teitz could have written about herself.

After all, she's the personification of a liberated woman—28-years-old, the graduate of Harvard law school who successfully coordinated the Coalition Against the SST in Washington, D.C.

But when Miss Teitz wanted to offer models of liberated women in book form, she chose to write about others—a broadcast journalist, lawyer, physician, oceanographer, physicist, company president, campaign committee chairman, economist, foreign service officer, systems analyst and writer. The result is, "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?"

Here for a brief visit, Miss Teitz explained why she wrote her book. "When I started working, I found other working women who were admirable, and who had satisfying personal lives, but who weren't emasculating, as liberated women were said to be. I thought then how helpful it would have been to have had models like that earlier. So one point was to provide role models for women, and other was, indirectly, to congratulate women who have worked all along."

"I felt it was important to go step by step," she continues. "I wanted a personal approach to show the women were real people."

The liberated women Miss Teitz wrote about do not know each other. Eight are married, six have children and only two are actively involved in the feminist movement. Their lives are different, but according to Miss Teitz, who spent three months interviewing her subjects, they share several qualities.

"They are pioneers," she says. "In realizing personal aims, they have created new roles which integrate a working life into a personal one. They share some problems, including a lot of pressure. Several said, 'I'm a better wife and mother because I work.' That's true, but there are moments when they're not better wives and mothers because their work doesn't permit them to be there."

"But it's better than being washed-out women," she goes on. "It seems to me that when a woman works, she looks better, has more money, is more interesting and often is very glamorous."

Miss Teitz adds that the single women still think of marriage as a valid goal, though not necessarily for themselves, and that frequently in the home, the married women still perform traditional roles such as cooking and cleaning.

Only two husbands do an equal amount of work in the home," Miss Teitz notes. "A third does a lot, but his wife still feels it is her role. Several of the women said they work long hours."

In spite of the problems, though, Miss Teitz thinks the costs of pursuing meaningful careers to the women involved were slight, and the rewards great. "It just seems that everything improves when a woman is working," she says.

The author's own background was career-oriented, but she recalls that when she was 19, nobody suggested she might want to go to law school. In fact, when Miss Teitz was 20, she took an aptitude test and recalls, "The results showed I was good at working with people and good with words. That's perfect for a lawyer, but what was suggested was that I become an English teacher."

Long blonde-haired, soft-spoken and recently married, Miss Teitz says she isn't a feminist who considers men "the enemy."

"For a while I thought women were the enemy," she says. "And I had a very hard time being sympathetic to women who put other women down. Such a woman," she explains, "is one who is not satisfied to lead what she considers to be a fulfilling and traditional life, but who has to try to foist that kind of life off on other women too."

Now, with the women's liberation movement, Miss Teitz thinks the tide is turning. In fact, she says, "It's harder now for women who want to stay at home. But for women who want to work—it's easier."

Motorists Cause Pedestrian's Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those drivers who thoughtlessly stop for a red light so close to the street intersection that they block the path of pedestrians who then have to walk around the car to either the front or the rear, and usually it seems to the rear where the car fumes are the most objectionable. — OPHELIA

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Karen how to deodorize her baby's rubber pants. I have found that the secret to sweet-smelling baby clothes is borax. For my three children, who have clean and sweet-smelling clothes, bibs, diapers and pants, I use ½-cup "detergent booster" with "energized borax" plus one cup mild detergent with enriched borax for each washer load. I do the diapers in a separate load. I air dry the waterproof pants and find I can use them for a day or more without rinsing between each wearing. — JUDI

DEAR POLLY and Karen — I used baking soda in the water either with soap or in the rinse water so my baby's waterproof pants had no odor. To the last rinse I added a small amount of white vinegar. — MRS. M. B.

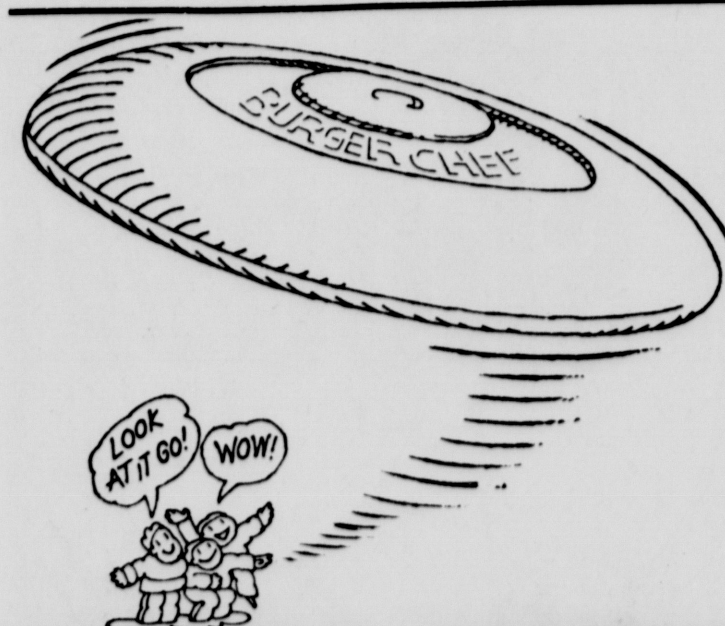

DEAR POLLY — I feel sure Karen's problem with odor in her baby's rubber pants will be solved if she would saturate a cloth in rubbing alcohol and wipe them off with it. The odor should completely disappear. I used to be a practical nurse and did this to rubber sheets and it worked like magic. — E. B.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Somewhere I read about using newspapers for mulching so moisture is retained in the soil, weed growth is retarded and insects are discouraged because of the distasteful printer's ink. How are they used? Are they shredded or spread flat? How are they anchored and how many thicknesses are used? I find the low humidity in our section of Colorado is great for my particular kind of arthritis but it requires frequent and copious watering of vegetables and flower gardens. — NELL

Principals State Problems and Goals

By SUSAN BULLOCK
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

High school students, parents and teachers often think the principal is someone who sits behind a large desk and shuffles papers, disciplines students and makes announcements at meetings. Interviews with Sedalia's two high school principals reveal more useful information about the principals' attitudes, responsibilities and insights into the problems of their schools.

A principal's attitudes toward his job are molded by the problems he faced. Earl Finley, 2409 South Quincy, principal of Smith-Cotton High School, said, "You name it and I do it. I try to create an atmosphere where students can learn." He spends most of his time outside his office observing classes, talking with teachers and students and organizing materials.

The problems of Smith-Cotton are problems of the past. Overcrowding and a limited curriculum are the two areas Finley is working to alleviate. "The new junior high has eliminated much of the overcrowding. It gives Smith-Cotton the chance to expand its curriculum," Finley said. More than 85 classes will be offered this year.

The emphasis is shifting from academic subjects to vocational education. Finley explained, "Educators across the country, including myself, have recognized that too many kids have gone on to college with no clear-cut idea of what they want to do."

The new "fixed-variable schedule" will allow students and teachers to use time more efficiently, Finley said. Students will have regular six period days three days a week. The other two days, Wednesday and Friday, students will attend three 95-minute classes. "It's something new. We'll be famous or notorious by Christmas," said Finley. "If this program doesn't work, we'll try something else."

"It will create a laboratory situation in all areas," said Finley. "The lengthened periods will help the teacher get away from the lecture method. Sitting and listening is the most ineffective learning method," he said. An English teacher will have to prepare for classes in which students are independent, Finley said.

Expansion of vocational education includes sending students to area vocational schools in Marshall and Warrensburg for classes in electronics, refrigeration and air conditioning, auto mechanics and auto body and fender repair.

"The drug education program will be extended to all grades of the high school this year," said Finley. "Any school the size of Smith-Cotton has students who experiment and use drugs. I personally feel we have very few who abuse drugs. Most of our students are too smart," Finley said.

William Lehman, 2533 Southwest Blvd., is the new principal of Sacred Heart High School. His 15 years experience as a teacher has given him the opportunity to see good and bad schools. He defines his job by the experiences he has had with other principals.

"My main influence will be on the teachers," Lehman said. He intends to support attempts to use new techniques in classrooms. "Students don't often realize that teachers have fears of failure," Lehman said. "I see my role of principal as that of a cheerleader. So many principals emphasize what teachers and students are doing wrong. I will see the good things going on."

One of his personal goals for the school year is to be accessible to students and teachers. He is already planning a forum situation in which students will be able to discuss with him policy questions. Lehman plans to encourage three things at Sacred Heart. First, "Learning is enjoyable. Schools have done all they could to kill learning. School is a place for human beings. We've acted in the past as if they were not," Lehman said.

"Other people can help. As an adult when I need help I can go to someone and talk with him. When I need a house built, I go to a contractor. We tell kids, 'You're on your own.' I advocate saying to children 'If you don't know something, ask.' That's the way we all learn," Lehman said.

According to Lehman schools have been built on failure. He wants to change this condition. "Everyone can learn."

Another goal is the "improvement of each individual's self concept." Last year Lehman's son was in a school with 700 other seventh graders. "I saw that he didn't really have any sense of belonging. Students at Sacred Heart will hear 'You count. We need you.' There won't be too many people sitting on the side lines," Lehman said.

"We intend to use the special talents of everyone," said Lehman. The combined teachers lounge will provide more time for grade school and high school teachers to exchange ideas and get to know each other. "Top level teaching takes place in grade schools. Grade school teachers can't ask kids to go home and read a chapter that they will be tested on the next day. They must use other methods," Lehman said. Inservice meetings of five or six teachers will replace full faculty meetings.

Scheduling at Sacred Heart is "more human than in the past," Lehman said. Passing time will be increased from two minutes to five minutes with the exception of a 10 minute passing time between second and third periods that will give students a break in the morning. "At this time students can get milk and cokes," Lehman said.

The lunch period will be increased from 20 minutes to 55 minutes. "This will give students time to move through the line, eat their meals and relax," Lehman said. Activities and interest groups are planned for this period. Volunteers will aid students in interest areas and allow teachers a duty free lunch period.

The single largest change in the curriculum is the absorption of religion into other classes. "We want people to see religion as a part of everything," said Lehman. For example, a science class may study the moral aspects of D.N.A. research, said Lehman.

A senior lounge is planned as a place for students to gather, said Lehman. Smoking will not be permitted in the lounge, because a smoking area is a safety hazard in the old building, he added. "I don't smoke myself and I hate to see it, but there should be an area, perhaps outside where students can smoke. I hope they would do it in an area in which they would not influence younger children," Lehman said.

"As a teacher I never had any problems with students' dress. I was always busy teaching. Sometime I was amused at it and at times I raised my eyebrows, but the way students dress is an expression of attitudes and identity," Lehman said. He recalled his experiences at Central High School in Kansas City. "The best day of the week was Friday before a big game, when all the athletes would wear ties and letter sweaters. On those days everyone would dress up," Lehman said.

Lehman considers preoccupation with dress an indication of misplaced importance. "I don't want to spend my time measuring skirts. The first responsibility for student dress is with the parents. However, I am willing to set up guidelines if that is what is decided," Lehman said.

"It's all part of the human thing," he added.

Greeting Warm For Eagleton

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, who was greeted by enthusiastic crowds Wednesday while stumping for Democratic candidates during a tour of southeastern Missouri, said there should be a better method of selecting the vice presidential candidate.

Eagleton, who withdrew earlier this month as the Democratic vice presidential nominee, proposed at a luncheon here that the nation's second highest office should have its candidates chosen only after the presidential nominee has had "ten thoughtful, reflective, quiet days to pick his men."

The Missouri Democrat said such a system would prevent presidential nominees "from hastily reaching a decision."

Asked about a comment made Tuesday by Mrs. McGovern that the true story of Eagleton's resignation had not yet been told, Eagleton laughed and said, "There are a lot of things I am going to divulge when I write my book."

Eagleton formally withdrew from the race Aug. 1, after creating a furor with his announcement that he had undergone psychiatric treatment three times in the 1960s.

In a question and answer session with members of a Cape Girardeau Civic club, Eagleton backed Sen. George McGovern, his former running mate, but pointedly mentioned that he and McGovern differ on many domestic issues, particularly McGovern's stands on the economy and welfare.

Eagleton was asked if McGovern was moderating his stance of some positions and what effect it would have on his supporters.

"I can assure you there will be no wholesale switch in McGovern's positions," he said. "The strong motivation for McGovern in the primaries was the war issue. He still hasn't changed his attitude on the war, and he won't."

Publisher Dies

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — Richard L. Armfield, the publisher-owner of the Mountain Echo weekly newspaper died here Wednesday of an apparent heart attack. He was 52.

Armfield and his wife bought the southeastern Missouri weekly nine years ago. Prior to that he had been news editor of the Waterways Journal, a river shipping trade magazine published in St. Louis.

Tom Mulawa, a construction worker for a Warren, Mich., contractor, working on the new IRS building in Detroit got a treat Wednesday when his wife, Cheryl, joined him for his lunch break. More than 100 kids and 35 wives joined their fathers and husbands for a company-sponsored "Build America" day and were given an opportunity to see what construction workers do on the job. (UPI)

Nader Cadillac Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader's Center for Auto Safety has asked the Justice Department to determine if federal charges should be brought against General Motors Corp. for allegedly concealing steering defects in some 285,000 12- and 13-year-old Cadillacs.

Lowell Dodge, center director, said Wednesday a source within GM, whom he declined to identify, told him that at least two accidents involving the failure of the pitman arm resulted in deaths and serious injury.

Dodge said company documents show that more than 18,000 pitman arms were sold for the 1959 and 1960 Cadillacs, indicating that 3.67 per cent of the cars have had the part replaced.

GM, however, said in a statement that a preliminary review shows that there have been "43 pitman-arm failures, two accidents and no injuries" involving the cars.

The pitman arm is a lever connecting the steering box with the tie rods that control the front wheel steering angle.

If the arms breaks, the result is sudden and complete loss of steering.

Dodge, who said about 100,000 of the cars are still on the road, claimed GM documents indicate the company had long been aware of the steering defect but had concealed the information, with the result that as late as 1968 there was debate within the company hierarchy as to the nature and the extent of the difficulty.

Milk Tolerance, Stomach Worries

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read an article by you on tips to combat stomach acid. It seemed to fit my condition perfectly. I've had X rays taken and received a report of only a "pre-ulcer condition." Many of my friends with ulcers drink a little milk or cream and seem to get relief. In my case it seems to make the pain in my stomach worse. I've tried to follow an ulcer diet, but I don't get any relief. Do you have any suggestions for me?

Dear Reader—I'm always suspicious when a patient tells me that he has been on a bland diet or the type of diet that is normally given for ulcer patients and his condition is actually made worse. Not infrequently, these are the people who have trouble with milk tolerance. They cannot digest the milk sugar. When this happens, the milk sugar stays in the digestive tract and acts somewhat like a chemical laxative, causing gas, distention, sometimes diarrhea and irritates the digestive tract in general. The best way to find out if this is the case is merely to stop using all dairy products long enough to find out if this is true. If so, the cure then is not the usual ulcer treatment, but staying away from all milk products and anything containing milk.

Such individuals will still need the calcium that's found in milk. I recommend that these people try to find a soybean milk replacement that has been fortified with the same amount of calcium that's normally present in milk. If you can't find it in your grocery store, it can usually be found in health food store.

The other problem which can be confused with ordinary ulcer pain is the low blood sugar problem. Individuals whose blood sugar drops sharply often have ulcer symptoms. The reason is that the same mechanism that causes excess insulin to be poured out from the pancreas that causes the low blood sugar also stimulates the stomach to pour out acid pepsin juice.

Milk, with its milk sugar, and some other products that people might eat on an ulcer diet actually aggravate the low blood sugar problem. These individuals are often best treated by avoiding sweets, milk, sweet drinks of any sort, including particularly hot, sweetened coffee, and directing their dietary program toward vegetables, cereals, meats and beans. They should avoid foods with lots of sugar such as fruits, sweets, baked products, including pies, cakes and any sweet rolls. In both instances the best way I know to find out if this is the problem is to test yourself along the lines just suggested.

Indians To Get Education Break

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Indians will have a better chance to get an education under the Higher Education Act of 1972, says Max Mills, regional director of the Health Education and Welfare Department.

The act authorizes spending $21 million over the next three years to help schools, but the money has not been appropriated yet. Mills told officials from Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska Wednesday.

Mills said school matters traditionally managed by the Bureau of Indian Affairs will be transferred to HEW and Indian officers presumably will be placed in regional offices of HEW.

Wednesday Is Tragic On Highway

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A pedestrian, Teresa Ann Irwin, 28, was struck and killed early today while hitchhiking with two companions in Kansas City.

The highway patrol said Miss Irwin of Kansas City was struck as she walked along Interstate 70 at the I-435 interchange in the southeastern part of the city.

Her death is the 68th traffic fatality recorded in Kansas City in 1972.

At least six deaths were reported on Missouri roads Wednesday.

Two were killed and four injured in a two-car collision Wednesday night about 5 miles south of Warrensburg. The dead were Sandy L. Coffin, 19, of O'Fallon, Ill., a passenger in one of the vehicles, and Donald W. Pickett, 38, of Windsor, Mo., a passenger in the other car.

Galen E. Hiskey, 30, of Excelsior Springs, Mo., was killed in a collision of his car and a Clay County Deputy Sheriff's car at Missouri 33 and U. S. 69 near Liberty. The deputy, Cecil L. Sharp, 39, was answering a call. Sharp was hospitalized with undetermined injuries.

Earlier, Carl Woolridge, 46, of Shell Knob, Mo., was killed and Charles K. Smith, 73, of Marionville, Mo., was seriously injured in a two-car collision on Missouri 39 south of Aurora.

John A. Haman, 54, of Prairie Village, Kan., and Clyde H. DeGraffenreid, 57, of Dadeville, Mo., were killed in a collision on U. S. 71 about six miles south of Nevada involving four vehicles.

Water behind the Aswan High Dam will be 316 feet deep and stretch 360 miles upriver to form Lake Nasser when the reservoir is filled about 1980.

Bothwell Hospital again measures up

It is good news to hear that Bothwell Hospital has again received full accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The hospital was granted a two-year accreditation based on a visit in July by an inspection team from the Joint Commission. This was a followup to a 1971 inspection, which gave Bothwell Hospital a one-year approval.

The Joint Commission is composed of the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association.

When it comes to operating a hospital, accreditation by the Joint Commission, although strictly voluntary, is the name of the game. Its standards are exacting, and it is a source of pride and comfort to know that Bothwell has qualified for more than 30 years.

The inspection runs the gamut of hospital services, covering such areas as the physical plant, equipment and facilities, medical and nursing staffs, special services and administration. Each hospital is measured against the Joint Commission's own yardsticks of excellence, which have been constantly upgraded since the original organization's founding in 1918.

As an example, accreditation by the Joint Commission is now given for only two years, where previously it was for three years. And even during the off-year, hospitals must now evaluate themselves under the same guidelines to retain their accreditation.

Further improvement of Bothwell Hospital will be achieved by the $1.8 million expansion program, for which the contract is expected to be let this fall.

The net result of all of this should be continued improvement in the quantity and quality of hospital care offered to patients.

Bum deal for women

I have followed with some concern your recent editorials on the Women's Liberation Movement.

The overt acts of religious, racial and sexual discrimination conceived and perpetrated by the white-male dominated culture of this society are so well documented by historical evidence that to make reference to any single example is to be merely repetitious.

The plight of blacks, browns, reds, women, youth and other oppressed minorities within our society has found expression in a variety of ways. Sometimes through art and music, through poetry and prose and often — too often through riots and demonstrations, in an effort to raise the level of consciousness among the American people. In response to these expressions on the part of the disaffected and disadvantaged, many serious-minded and concerned persons have dedicated their future and their lives to uplifting the quality of life in this society for the benefit of all people.

That Sedalia, Missouri has been virtually untouched by the historic events which have transpired in America since the Supreme Court desegregation decision of the fifties, which are destined to shape the future quality of American life, is evidenced in part by the quality of your newspaper and the content of your editorials. Further evidence can be found in the lifestyle of the community whose philosophy, attitude and behavior reflects a bygone era of racial and sexual exclusiveness of class distinction.

manifested in black and white ghettos, in unequal employment, pseudo-integrated education, in paternalistic politics, in lip-service liberalism, in abject cultural ignorance. A city lost in provincial colonialism of the kind that eats away the moral fiber of its citizenry.

It is unfortunate that your editorials cannot be classified as merely the offensive acts of individuals, but must be seen as the response of a community to a vital segment of humanity — namely women — at a time when women are struggling courageously not for equal rights with men (which presently forms the basis for the male psychosis) but for the full humanity which is theirs by DIVINE RIGHT, and which is denied them by a society which insults, humiliates and degrades them daily in its persistence to limit their potential to participate in all areas of human affairs. The role of the white male in this society, is one which no woman seriously concerned about liberation cares to play, for it is not a role of honor, rather it is a role which has produced the unreasoning racial, religious and sexual prejudice which has forced a nation to the brink of disaster.

Freedom of the press is most certainly a right and a privilege. It can only be hoped that such right and such a privilege will always be used responsibly.

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department must soon decide whether to investigate alleged criminal violations in the election of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., who has immense power over the department because of his tight hold on its purse strings.

The cantankerous Rooney heads the House Appropriations subcommittee, which decides how much money the Justice Department can spend. Thus, Attorney General Richard Kleindienst will face the dilemma of subpoenaing the hand that feeds him.

The election case grows out of the bitter Democratic primary, which Rooney won by a disputed 890 votes. The loser, ex-Rep. Allard Lowenstein, has been calling for a new election.

He has pressed his case in the state courts. But now he is going into federal court with allegations against the Rooney machine that would make a Tammany Hall wardheeler blush.

For example, Rooney's nephew James and James's wife Beatrice are both shown on voting records as voting twice. When we reached them at their home across the street from their famous uncle, they insisted they had voted only once. If a second vote was cast in their name, they said, it was not done by them.

"There has been a foul-up somewhere," said James Rooney, a florist.

We also have copies of an official-looking postcard with "Primary Election Notice" printed on it. But on the back is an advertisement for Rooney's slate. The bulk rate Post Office permit was issued not to the Board of Elections, the seeming source of the card, but to the pro-Rooney Pioneer Regular Democratic Club of Brooklyn.

Political ads with no reference to their sponsor violate the federal criminal code.

We have also learned that New York Board of Elections Commissioner Gundersindt (cq) Martinez, whose job it is to keep elections fair, boomed Rooney from a sound truck a few days before the primary.

He assured us this wouldn't interfere with his impartiality in dealing with the election. He had campaigned for Rooney on his own time, Martinez explained, because his wife ran as a committeewoman on the Rooney ticket.

We also have affidavits telling how supposedly neutral poll inspectors were assigned by the Rooney machine. Rooney himself, according to testimony belabored Lowenstein poll workers twice when he visited a polling place.

When Lowenstein levers were broken in Puerto Rican and black areas where Lowenstein was strong, there's evidence they weren't fixed for long periods. Lowenstein plans to charge racial discrimination in his federal suit.

In one Lowenstein area, Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., was conducting a get-out-the-vote campaign. He swears the lines were so slow that some 40 voters simply left.

A special deputy attorney general for New York has sworn that one Spanish-speaking woman arrived at the polls only to find that someone had forged her name on her voting card.

There's no reason to believe Rooney was personally aware of all that his supporters were doing at the polls. But it will be interesting to see what the Justice Department does about the allegations.

Footnote: A finding of fraudulent election would mean Rooney must run again. Rooney could not be reached for comment.

President Nixon's chief money raiser, Maurice Stans, has accused Democratic congressmen of pressuring the General Accounting Office to rush the release of a controversial report charging the Republicans with election law violations.

Our own investigation indicates that the real pressure came from Stans, himself, who pulled strings to delay publication of the GAO audit temporarily.

The report had been scheduled for release on the day President Nixon was renominated. Stans apparently didn't want the President's triumph spoiled by an embarrassing report. Taking advantage of the friendship of two key GAO officials, Stans personally intervened to hold up the release.

He telephoned Comptroller General Elmer Staats and GAO elections chief Phil Hughes to ask them to hold off. Both men had worked under Stans when he ran the Bureau of the Budget for the late President Eisenhower.

Indeed, Stans gave both of them promotions. Staats became Stans's deputy director and Hughes was promoted to be deputy legislative chief. Stans also served in the late 1960s on a personal consultant panel for Staats.

In talking to Staats and Hughes a week ago Tuesday, Stans said he had additional information and asked them to delay the report to include it.

Actually, Stans had been questioned by GAO investigators on several earlier occasions. But his last-minute tactics worked and the embarrassing audit was held up for four days.

After the GAO report belatedly hit the headlines, Stans charged that it had been rushed into print as a result of pressure from Democratic congressmen. But Stans's office wouldn't name any of the Democratic congressmen nor provide us with any details. Stans himself refused to talk to us.

Footnote: The GAO report charged the Republicans with 11 possible or apparent violations of the new campaign reporting law, involving a total of $350,000 in campaign contributions.

A conservative view

Change in earth, politics

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — To spend two weeks on the road, as these things usually are reckoned, is not to be long away from home. Soldiers, sailors and traveling men are out much longer. Back in the early spring, when many of us were chasing candidates on the primary trail, two weeks were nothing much. But this has seemed a long time out — twelve thousand miles, as the crows fly, and none the wiser.

Yet the awareness of ignorance marks the beginning of wisdom, and this time, perhaps, for no particular reason, I bring home awareness. We oracles often are asked, when the speech ends and the questions begin, to define the mood of the country. The honest answer, seldom heard, is that no man can say.

These two weeks have spanned the nation, from Miami to Los Angeles and back again. I am struck dumb, again for no good reason, at the immensity of this good land. It has no dominant mood. One encounters hope and despair, anxiety and satisfaction, anger and good humor, frustration and achievement. Some idiot, writing in the current Playboy magazine, has delivered himself of sweeping pronouncements on "the women of the South," as if he knew the women of the South. A stupid article. Those of us who deal in national affairs should avoid the same presumption.

How are things in Tallahassee? The question is put to a clerk at a newsstand, and her accent is as soft as Spanish moss: "We're feelin' no pain." What of Chicago? Says a cab driver: "It could be worse." And Los Angeles? Says a barber: "Not bad. Not bad at all." But the clerk and the cab driver and the barber speak from their own small worlds, their tiny tight cocoons. We ought not to leap to grand conclusions on the health of a nation.

Here in the mountains, suddenly it is summer's end. In an old and vivid metaphor, one says of a man that he has "gone to seed," but it is only late in August that the image lies at hand. Everything, in these two weeks, has gone to seed — grass, trees, weeds, the garden plants. This time is a time of transition.

The tomatoes are still producing, but the vines are shriveling now, the dead branches like torn curtains. Japanese beetles have made lacework of a peach tree. Black-eyed peas did poorly this year: Too much fertilizer, I suspect. They were done in by affluence and wasted themselves in extravagant vines.

I drive to Woodville for the mail. The road crew, at long last, has cut the weeds, but the dead stalks are worse than the living plants. They lie in rotting windrows, boot-brown. A groundhog scuffles through the debris. He is a fat one, that groundhog. How are things in Rappahannock County? The groundhog, snug in his hole, is feeling no pain.

The leaves are turning. I fill one of the bird feeders, suspended from a gum, and pluck a leaf. Two weeks ago it was green, this leaf, but it is russet now, black-charred at the tip. Eugene McCarthy has sent a book of his poems. He speaks of maple leaves that fall in autumn, "brown veined, spotted, like old hands, fluttering in blessing." Better to write poetry than to run for president.

It is all necessary, of course, this going to seed, this cycle of rotting and dropping and dying. In the deepening twilight, I pick up a fallen acorn, knurled as the knob on a safe, and wonder at the secret locked inside. It is the oldest observation of philosopher and theologian that in the midst of life we are in death. At summer's end we know the first soft breath of spring.

Perhaps it is so with institutions also. Politics is my beat. Is there some valid analogy here? Are the old virtues dying, truly dying, or only going to seed, renewing themselves? "We hold these truths to be self-evident," said Jefferson. He wrote in an early summer long ago. Two hundred years have passed, and the American dream has been two weeks on the road. The balloons of Miami were red, white and blue, but the acorns are brown and the nights grow cold. Weatherman, I ask aloud, what is our country's season now?

How the Republicans handle money

WASHINGTON — The Republicans seem to be having some problem explaining how they collect donations for the party. The General Accounting Office (GAO) has accused the party of mishandling their campaign funds, to which the Committee for the Re-Election of the President has replied, "Nonsense!"

The trouble seems to be that the GAO and the Democrats don't understand how the Republicans process their money. If they did, there would be no question of impropriety.

This is how the system works:

When someone gives a $25,000 donation in the form of a check to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, a party official is sent to pick it up. He then cashes the check at a bank in Houston.

Another official picks up the cash and flies it to Portland, Me., where it is placed in a safe in the office of a Lawyer for Nixon.

After a week the money is taken out of the safe by another Republican official, who takes it to Wall Street and purchases a cashier's check with it. The cashier's check is turned over to a public relations man, who carries it to Minneapolis and hands it to a courier, who flies the check to Seattle, where it is cashed and used to buy short-term municipal notes at 6 per cent.

These notes are then placed in a special bra of a Republican national committeewoman, who files to San Francisco.

The Republican committeewoman turns the notes over to Gov. Ronald Reagan's chauffeur, who drives to Los Angeles and delivers them to John Wayne's business manager.

He takes them to the First National Bank of San Clemente, where he cashes them.

The cash is handed to a close friend of Maurice Stans, who buries the money in a cigar box in his back yard under an avocado tree.

A week later, at midnight, Frank Sinatra and Efrem Zimbalist Jr. dig up the box and fly it to Palm Springs, where it is turned over to a caddy on the eighth hole of the Thunderbird golf course.

The cash is then converted into diamonds, which are placed in the false bottom of a suitcase, taken by Sammy Davis Jr. to New Orleans and placed in an old grandfather clock on the plantation of a Democrat for Nixon.

Two weeks later the diamonds are removed from their hiding place and converted into soybean futures. The soybean futures are then sold for ITT bonds at 8 per cent. These bonds are taken by Greyhound bus to El Paso, where they are placed in a waterproof packet and turned over to a frogman, who swims the Rio Grande with them on his back.

More Money Provided for City In Senate Version of Measure

By SONJA HILLGREN
Special to the Democrat
WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee's version of revenue sharing provides substantially more money for Sedalia than the full House voted in June.

Under the Senate bill, Sedalia would receive $545,525. The House bill earmarks $268,371.

Under both bills, the figures are annual payments which the U.S. Treasury would release directly to the communities in each of the next five years. Under the Senate bill, the states have an option to change allocations to local governments once in the next five years.

The House bill allocates $5.3 billion for the nation for fiscal 1973 — two thirds of it to local governments and one third to the states. The Senate bill adds an extra $1 billion to the House figure, but it isn't new money. The extra $1 billion puts a lid on and replaces most of the existing social service grants which last year ran up a bill of $4.8 billion nationwide.

Here is a comparison of House and Senate figures for area governments. The figures are unofficial and subject to computer error.

✓ Pettis County government: $119,932. House: $243,788. Senate: $243,788.

✓ Benton County government: $83,258. House: $120,520. Senate: $120,520.

✓ Booneville: $63,696. House: $87,673. Senate: $87,673.

✓ Henry County government: $71,809. House: $108,800. Senate: $108,800.

✓ Clinton: $68,662. House: $85,493. Senate: $85,493.

✓ Windsor: $28,402. House: $54,564. Senate: $54,564.

✓ Johnson County government: $210,201. House: $289,007. Senate: $289,007.

✓ Warrensburg: $150,766. House: $207,290. Senate: $207,290.

✓ Lafayette County government: $99,216. House: $122,087. Senate: $122,087.

✓ Higginsville: $49,829. House: $46,838. Senate: $46,838.

✓ Lexington: $63,299. House: $66,887. Senate: $66,887.

✓ Odessa: $34,131. House: $47,678. Senate: $47,678.

✓ Moniteau County government: $88,957. House: $95,936. Senate: $95,936.

✓ California: $27,996. House: $33,578. Senate: $33,578.

✓ Morgan County government: $98,009. House: $135,510. Senate: $135,510.

✓ Saline County government: $119,725. House: $169,361. Senate: $169,361.

✓ Marshall: $113,919. House: $146,440. Senate: $146,440.

✓ Slater: $26,052. House: $51,562. Senate: $51,562.

The higher Senate funding levels result from a different distribution formula used by the Finance Committee. The formula favors rural areas and large cities at the expense of suburban areas.

In another major change, the Senate bill places virtually no strings on the spending of revenue sharing funds by communities, whereas the House essentially limits spending to public transportation programs, public safety and environmental improvement.

The Senate bill is scheduled for floor debate when Congress reconvenes after Labor Day. If the full Senate passes the Finance Committee bill, the differences will be ironed out later this fall by a House-Senate conference.

Pentagon Sees 25,000 Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources expect the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam to fall to about 25,000 men by Dec. 1, some 2,000 fewer than President Nixon's goal for that date.

These sources also predicted Tuesday that the number of troops staying behind will fall to about 20,000 before leveling out to a minimum force.

The President announced Tuesday the latest troop reduction, from about 39,000 at present to 27,000 by Dec. 1. He refused to say whether additional withdrawals would follow.

However, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the 27,000 will not be the minimum force expected to remain in Vietnam pending a war settlement, meaning another withdrawal is likely.

The President said Tuesday, as he has said before, that some U.S. troops will remain in Vietnam while "there is one prisoner of war in Vietnam or missing in action not accounted for."

The latest troop withdrawal is the 12th under a policy followed by Nixon since shortly after he entered the White House in 1969 when U.S. troops in South Vietnam totaled 543,400.

Laird, who returned Tuesday from a conference with Nixon at the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., said U.S. servicemen remaining in South Vietnam will carry out logistics, air, intelligence and advisory assignments.

The U.S. advisors will be the last to leave. There were hints at the Pentagon that their number will be reduced in the next withdrawal stage.

The bulk of the U.S. air power and more than 100,000 American military men are outside of Vietnam, in Thailand, Guam and aboard warships, from where they continue the attack by air and sea against North Vietnam, supply lines in Laos and enemy troop concentrations in the South.

'Alienated' Go to Nixon

By LOUIS HARRIS

One of the original hopes of the McGovern campaign — that the bulk of "alienated" voters in the country would go decisively for the South Dakota Senator in November — thus far simply is not taking place. With the withdrawal of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama from the race, President Nixon now holds a 46-43 per cent lead among voters.

Had Wallace remained in the race, the protest vote would have divided 55-38 per cent against Nixon. Not only has the Wallace vote gone over to Nixon over-all, but those particularly disaffected with the way things are going in the country these days favor the President nearly two to one.

Faced with their ideological disagreements with Sen. McGovern on the one hand, and their alienation from the Establishment on the other, most former Wallace backers are now inclined to swallow their disenchantment with the status quo and cast their ballots for President Nixon.

However, it should be pointed out that these conclusions are based on polling which took place early in August when Sen. McGovern reached a low point just after dropping Sen. Eagleton from his ticket. What is more, a substantial 30 per cent of the former Wallace voters were still undecided, most of whom would fall into the "alienated" category. So it is still possible that McGovern might win as many as half of the alienated who originally preferred Wallace.

At the moment, McGovern is drawing heavily among the alienated only from blacks and the under-30 voters. A major question of the campaign is whether the McGovern style and rhetoric will appeal to the least-well-educated, the poor, union members and big-city voters — who make up much of the traditional Democratic vote.

In the spring primaries, this so-called "gut" vote was precisely where George Wallace, rather than George McGovern, found his greatest appeal. The theory that Sen. McGovern might also be the beneficiary in November of similar protest in the grassroots remains to be documented, however.

Chamber President Honored

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — An honorary doctorate of humane letters has been presented to William S. Lowe of Mexico, Mo., by William Woods College.

Lowe, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce since May 2, and board chairman of William Woods College since 1954, was honored at a convocation Wednesday night, marking the opening of the fall semester.

Speaking of the school's facilities and faculty, Lowe said it was one of the best colleges in the country.

Dr. Randall Cutlip, college president, in presenting the honorary degree, described Lowe as a "distinguished educator, scientist and public servant."

Gold medallions were awarded to four members of the faculty—Mrs. Grace Makissy, Kenneth Bell, Erbie Darnell and Jack Dudley.

Air Study Sees Price Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly published study on air traffic congestion has recommended that airports charge higher airplane landing fees and that airlines charge higher ticket prices for flights during the busier hours of the day.

Ross D. Eckert, assistant professor of economics at the University of Southern California, made the recommendations in a 63-page study on airport congestion and at a news conference Tuesday. The study was published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

Eckert said airport landing fees now in existence vary with the weight of the aircraft but not with the time of the flight. These fees, he said, tend to make the costs of runway use lowest for aircraft most likely to contribute to congestion—the smaller, slower propeller-driven private and business aircraft.

He said the most common method of rationing scarce goods and services in the United States is through price, with the goods going to the buyer who will pay the most. But this method, he said, is used little for airports.

"The first come, first served method," he said, "tends to generate high levels of congestion. It is not efficient. We should charge higher prices for airport use during popular hours and less during the off-hours, like the telephone company does."

Writer, Bassham Gun Down Gold, Silver

MUNICH (AP) — It was the best of days for one sharpshooter. It was very nearly the worst of days for 10 others. It was the bitterest of days for one high flyer. It was the sweetest of days for another. "I don't spend 30 hours a week at a hobby," John Writer said Wednesday after winning the three-position small-bore rifle and setting a bit of American Olympic history. "This is a sport. Real competition."

By winning the gold medal at these 20th Summer Games, the 27-year-old Chicago marksman gave the United States its second shooting medal, the first time the United States has won more than one in the traditionally European-dominated sport. Writer scored a world and Olympic record 1,166 points out of a possible 1,200 in the prone, kneeling and standing positions. And the United States got its third shooting medal when Lanny Bassham of Comanche, Tex., an Army marksmanship instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga., got the silver, finishing behind Writer with 1,157 points.

Vic Auer of North Hollywood, Calif., had gotten America's first shooting medal of the Games on Monday, taking a silver in the small-bore prone competition.

The 10 other sharpshooters are known collectively as the U.S. basketball team, whose supremacy of the game in the Olympics very nearly came to an end Wednesday.

"We needed a game like this where we had to come from behind," Coach Hank Iba said of his kids after they rallied from seven points down in the second half to pull out a 61-54 triumph over Brazil.

The victory was the fourth for the Yanks, now undefeated in 59 contests stretching back to the 1936 Berlin Games, when the sport was introduced to the Olympics.

The bitter high-flyer was Bob Seagren, America's premiere pole vaulter, angered over what he called "obviously a political decision" on the part of the International Amateur Athletic Federation to outlaw his green vaulting pole for the Games.

The pole, with a newer weave of fiberglass than the old ones, came out last year and Seagren, rebounding from knee surgery, used it to set his world record of 18 feet 5 3/4 inches.

After he set the record last month, the IAAF banned the pole saying it hadn't been available for world-wide use.

On Monday, the IAAF reversed itself, reinstating the pole. On Wednesday the federation reversed itself again.

"It's a personal vendetta against me and against America," said the angry Seagren of Monterey Park, Calif.

Seagren got a bit of good news—and Sweden a bit of disastrous news—when it was announced that his stiffest competitor for the gold, Kjell Isaksson, would not compete because of groin and leg injuries.

The happiest high-flyer was Vladimir Vasin, a Moscow University economics student who won the gold in springboard diving, ending a 60-year U.S. domination of the three-meter event.

"For years the Americans have been the best divers in the world," said the handsome 25-year-old Russian. "But now we have come to the conclusion that they are not gods and that we can compete with them."

Craig Lincoln of Hopkins, Minn., rallied from sixth place on his final two dives to win the bronze behind Italy's Franco Cagnotto.

In the four swimming finals, the United States wound up with one gold, two silvers and a bronze. That, along with the rest of the day's competition, gave America 22 medals thus far—seven gold, nine silver and six bronze. Second in the standings is East Germany with 15 medals, five of them gold.

Four U.S. girls combined to get the lone water gold, winning the women's 400-meter freestyle relay in a world-record time of 3:55.19.

Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif., was the heroine as she covered the final 100 meters in a sizzling 58.18 seconds to overtake East German anchor swimmer Kornelia Ender.

Ahead of Miss Babashoff in the relay were Sandy Neilson of El Monte, Calif., Jennifer Kemp of Cincinnati and Jane Barkman of Wayne, Pa.

One silver went to Tim McKee of Newton Square, Pa., who finished an incredible two-thousandths of a second behind Gunnar Larsson of Sweden in the men's 400-meter individual medley. Both were clocked in 4:31.98 and the computer had to carry the time an extra digit to provide a victor. It was Larsson, 4:31.981 to McKee's 4:31.983.

The other silver and the bronze both came in the men's 100-meter breaststroke. Nobutaka Taguchi of Japan won the gold with a world-record 1:04.91 clocking while Tom Bruce of Sunnyvale, Calif., came in second and John Hencken of Santa Clara, Calif., third.

Only in the women's 400-meter freestyle were the U.S. swimmers shut out. Shane Gould, Australia's 15-year-old sensation, won her second gold of the Games with her second world-record performance, winning in 4:19.04. Miss Babashoff was America's best in the event, coming in fourth.

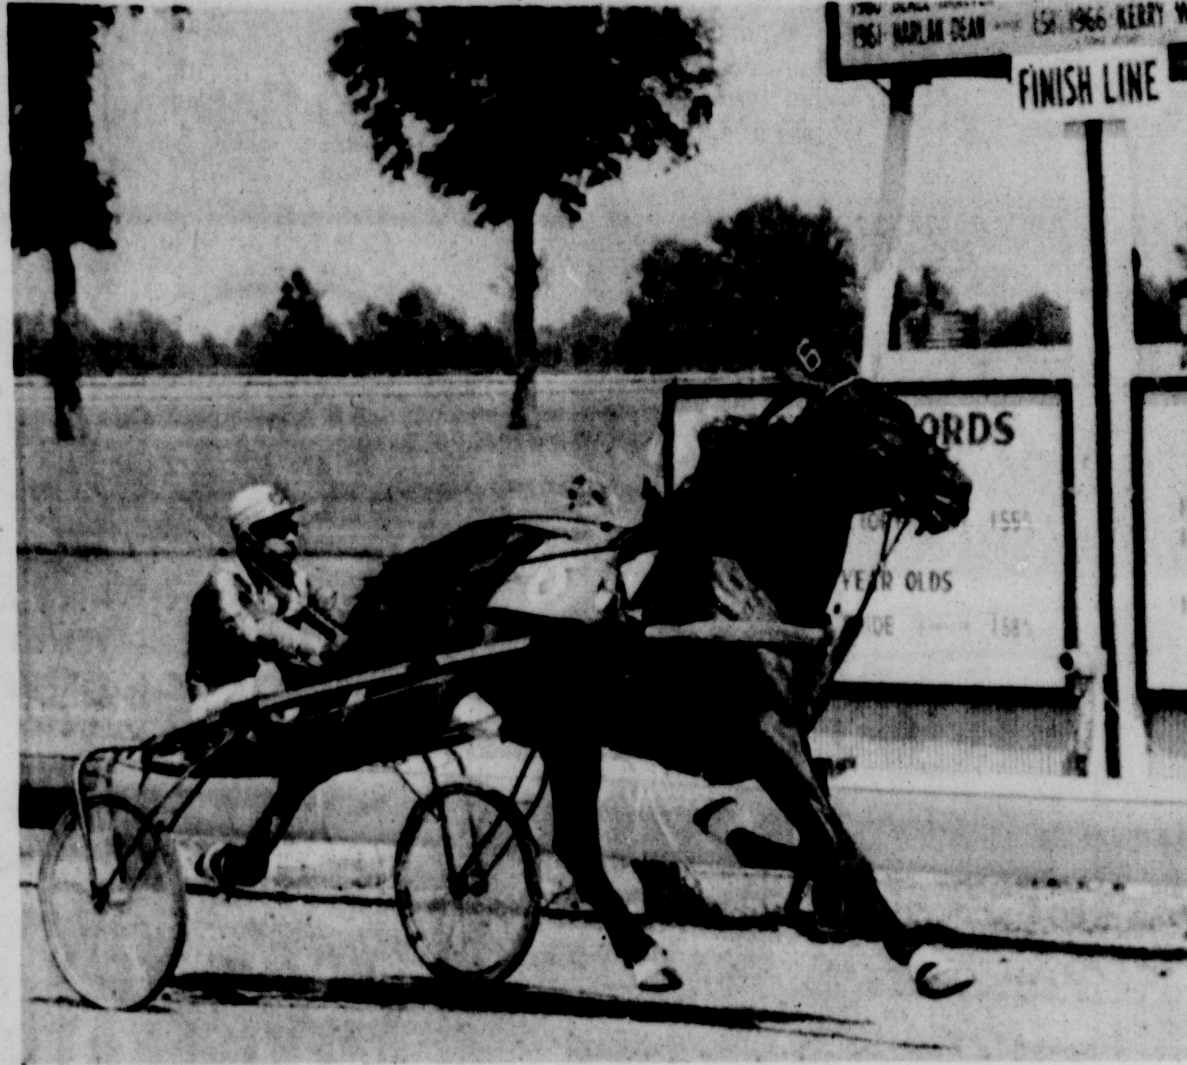

In women's all-around gymnastics, Russia's Liudmila Tourisheva, graceful as a ballerina and strong as an acrobat, won the gold while the best of the five Americans, Cathy Rigby of Long Beach, Calif., was 10th.

Japan swept the men's gymnastics with Sawao Kato coping the gold.

Dan Gable of Waterloo, Iowa, moved within a step of grabbing a gold in wrestling, reaching the finals of the 149.5-pound freestyle division by pinning Poland's Wlodzimierz Cieslak in a semifinal.

Mukharbi Kirshninov of the Soviet Union won the lightweight wrestling, Poland's Witold Woyda won the men's foil, Angelika Bahmann of East Germany was victorious in women's Kayak and East Germans Walter Hofmann and Rolf Deiter won the Canadian pairs canoeing to garner other golds.

St. Joseph Wins Bronco Crown

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — St. Joseph won the championship of the Bronco World Series of Boys Baseball Inc., defeating Mission, Tex., 7-2, Wednesday night.

By beating the Texans a second time, St. Joseph completed a n undefeated, five-game march through the double elimination eight-team tournament.

The entries included five teams from the continental United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Mexico.

Steve Bundy of St. Joseph was the tourney's leading hitter with a .444 average.

The tournament will return to St. Joseph in 1973.

Heading for the Finish

With all four feet off the ground, Super Bowl crosses the finish line Wednesday afternoon to win the 47th Hambletonian Stake in record time at the DuQuoin, Ill., State Fair. The three-year-old trotter, driven by Stanley Dancer of Egypt, N.J., took the title in two straight heats and won $59,545 of the $119,000 purse. Super Bowl won the first heat in a clocking of 1:57 and two-fifths and established a record in the second heat by going one full second faster over the mile dirt track. (UPI)

Track Competition Opens

MUNICH (AP) — The splendorous, $100-million Olympic Stadium here welcomes the world's greatest track athletes today in what the games' organizers hope will be the most accurate if not the most electric of running, jumping and throwing competitions.

The electricity will be provided by a plethora of computer-linked gadgets designed to more easily and accurately determine winners and their marks and speed the answers to the world.

Additional electricity on this first of nine days will be generated by such world record holders as Dave Hemery, Eddie Hart, Dave Wottle, Heide Rosendahl, Hildegard Falck and Paul Nihill.

The two final events on the card—the women's long jump and 20-kilometer walk—normally lack dramatics but the first day of track thrusts those events into center stage.

Nihill, England's newest sensation, set the world record for the 20-kilometer walk at 1 hour 24 minutes 50 seconds, as he shed the mark of 1:25:19 set by East Germany's Peter Frenkel earlier this year.

Nihill is favored to win here but Frenkel and teammate Hans Reimann and Russia's Nikolay Smaga fill out a tough field.

Before the walkers re-enter the stadium from their 11.4 mile stroll through the streets, the 25-year old Miss Rosendahl of West Germany may have the gold medal in the long jump.

The lass owns the world mark of 22 feet 5 3/4 inches and will have the massive throng of 80,000 behind her.

Meanwhile, the runners take the Rekortan track for the first time with Hemery hoping to begin successful defense of his 400-meter intermediate hurdle crown.

Super Bowl Posts Record Win

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Stanley Dancer has run $20,000 into $1,384,000 in two years without going near the stock market. He did it with Super Bowl.

Super Bowl became the fastest 3-year-old trotter in history Wednesday by winning the Hambletonian in straight heats of 1:57 2-5 and 1:56 2-5 and was sold to Hanover Shoe Farms in Pennsylvania for $1 million.

With the first prize of $59,545 in the Hambletonian, Super Bowl's career earnings were boosted to $384,022. Dancer bought him as a yearling for $20,000.

John Simpson, president of Hanover Shoe Farms, disclosed the $1 million sale between heats of the 3-year-old trotting classic.

Delmonica Hanover, a filly driven by Del Miller, was second both times by about three lengths. Super Bowl's combined time of 3:53 4-5 was the fastest ever trotted in any age bracket. His second heat of 1:56 2-5 broke the Hambletonian record of 1:56 3-5 by Ayres, piloted by Simpson, in 1964.

"I didn't go out for a record," said Dancer, who has driven the long-legged colt to nine straight victories and 14 in 18 starts this year.

"But in that second heat

when Spartan Hanover made a charge, I let him go."

Spartan Hanover, driven by Billy Houghton, who never has won the Hambletonian, finished second to Super Bowl eight times this season. Wednesday he finished 3-5.

Delmonica Hanover took second money of $27,772 with 2-2 finishes and Flush shared third with Spartan with 5-3.

Course Yields Little

Scores High After First Round of Amateur Action

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Blithe spirit Billy Joe Patton, a semifinalist 10 years ago, walked off the course halfway through the 12-hour marathon that marked Wednesday's first round of the 72nd U.S. Amateur Golf Championship and offered this assessment:

"The winner of this tournament can shoot 74 or 75 one time, but he must be under par once or twice. I think 286 or 287 will look awfully good late Saturday afternoon. They are not going to tear up this course."

When the long day was over, the 50-year-old Morganton,

N.C., lurberman, a five-time Walker Cup player, stood in a tie for 19th place with his 74, three over par for the 6,811-yard Charlotte Country Club course.

As he noted, the course was not yielding many low scores. Sharing the lead at 69, two under par, going into today's second round of the 72-hole test were Mark Pfeil of Palos Verdes, Calif., and Greg Stuhler of Atlanta, Ga.

They were among the five players in the field of 150 who were able to better par 36-35.

Sharing third place at 70 were Bruce Robertson, Stanford University sophomore from San Mateo, Calif.; Bruce Hollwell, Missouri amateur champion from Springfield; and David King, 31-year-old Bethesda, Md., insurance man who finished with 32, the day's best nine, after four straight front-nine bogeys.

Ben Crenshaw, the University of Texas junior who is carrying the load of favorite, had to play the last eight holes in three under par to finish even and tie at 71 with Jim Wittenberg, Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., for sixth place.

The low 60 and ties will survive for Friday and Saturday play. The final round will be televised nationally by ABC.

Tigers Purchase Howard

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced today the purchase of Frank Howard, slugging outfielder-first baseman from the Texas Rangers for an undisclosed cash price.

A spokesman for the Tigers said that because Howard will not join the team until Friday, he will not be eligible to play in any American League playoff series or World Series competition.

Pass Rush Improvement Tops on Cardinals' List

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals prided themselves in allowing National Football League opponents to pin their quarterbacks for losses only 19 times during the 1971 season.

The only problem was that the Cardinals, a title challenger in 1970, were able to nail other teams' quarterbacks only 20 times themselves and went on to a dismal 4-9-1 season.

"We want to improve our overall defense in terms of getting better plays," said Coach Bob Holtz.

"If our offense doesn't move the ball, we must be capable of turning a game in our favor with our defense."

A pass rush, then, looms as the top target for improvement with the Cardinals, although improved receiving and the bolstering of the running rate not far behind.

To fortify the front four, Holtz has moved nine-season veteran Chuck Walker from end to tackle, where he joins Bob Rowe and Fred Heron, and has given a strong trial to 6-foot-6 rookie Martin Imhof as Walker's replacement at defensive right end.

Ron Yankowski, who started as a rookie last season, should be improved at his defensive left end position and Holtz has a much deeper assortment of linebackers than last year.

Opponents' passing produced more yards against a seasoned Cards defensive secondary in 1971 than in 1970 but scored fewer touchdowns despite numerous injuries, an adjustment to almost exclusively zone assignments and the presence of rookies Larry Willingham and Norm Thompson.

Eight-season veteran Miller Farr is back at left cornerback. Roger Wehrli returns at right corner and 34-year-old Larry Wilson has moved to left safety in place of departed Jerry Stovall to make the secondary the least of Holtz's worries.

While the changes in the defense have been few, Cards opponents will be looking at as many as six new faces when the team goes on the attack.

Discouraged by dropped passes and a running attack that failed to produce an outside threat in 1971, Holtz traded away power running backs MacArthur Lane and Cid Edwards and wide receivers John Gilliam and Dave Williams.

In their place he brought in Leon Bruns from San Diego and Donny Anderson from Green Bay to man the running back posts, acquired rangy Walker Gillette as a receiver and obtained veteran quarterback Gary Cuozzo from Minnesota.

Cuozzo, who Holtz obtained for his experience and play selections, will battle Jim Hart for the starting role. The team may have three quarterbacks since 28-year-old rookie Tim Van Galder has shown pre-season promise.

Rookie Bobby Moore of Oregon at wide receiver and second-year guard Dan Dierdorf are the other new faces likely to appear with the offense.

The Cards also have one of the NFL's speediest receivers in Mel Gray, and increased depth in the backfield with the acquisition of Craig Baynham and return of John Roland and Roy Shivers.

Bob Reynolds and Ernie McMillan, who combine 22 years of experience at offensive tackle, still form some of the NFL's best protection and Jackie Smith returns for a 10th season as a respected and punishing tight end.

Imhof, linebackers Mark Arneson and Rocky Wallace, defensive ends Tom Beckman and Council Rudolph and running back Bill Taylor, acquired from the Atlanta Falcons, are among the squad's more promising newcomers.

"I suppose our biggest objective on offense is to cut down on mistakes," said Holtz, whose team lost 20 of 35 fumbles and had 26 passes intercepted a year ago. "Teams that don't make mistakes are usually teams that are going to win."

"But in that second heat

Ralph Heerman Elected Quarterback Club Head

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — Ralph Heerman has been elected president of the Quarterback Club here.

Other officers named during the organization's meeting were Charles Marcum, vice-president; and Lester Harms, secretary-treasurer. F. C. Dohman is the out-going president.

Coach John Johnson and his assistant, Joe Mitchell, outlined the season's activities for the group and introduced Larry Hieronymus, Sedalia, who will also be an assistant football, baseball and basketball coach this year.

As part of the meeting, the group viewed new exercising equipment bought by the school this year. It was also voted to hold Work Night at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the football field.

Long-range activities planned by the organization include a turkey shoot on Nov. 12.

The Club then voted to establish its regular meeting time as 7:30 p.m. Tuesday following each football game. The meetings will be held in the school cafeteria.

Otis Guides KC

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Amos Otis had long since put things out of reach for the Milwaukee Brewers Wednesday night, but George Scott was still seething. Otis slammed a three-run home run in the eighth inning and a two-run double in the ninth, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 6-2 victory. His homer broke up a 1-1 pitchers' duel between Paul Splittorff (10-10) who had lost six straight decisions, and Milwaukee's Jim Lonborg.

The Brewers had Ron Theobald at second base in the sixth

Punt, Pass, Kick Registration Open

Registration for the Punt, Pass and Kick competition, which is being jointly sponsored locally by Bill Greer Ford and the Sedalia Jaycees, is now underway.

The competition is open to boys between the ages of 8 and 13. They may register for the Sept. 30 local finals at Bill Greer Ford, 1700 West Broadway. The deadline for entering is Sept. 29.

Those finals will be held at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. There is no entry fee charged for participating in the event, which has attracted more than eight million boys since its start in 1961.

when plate umpire George Maloney called a third strike on Scott. The Brewer first-baseman insisted the pitch was "low and a foot and a half outside."

Scott was so enraged he continued to holler at Maloney from his position at first in the top of the seventh, and Manager Del Crandall ran onto the field to try to calm him. When Scott yelled some more in the top of the eighth, Maloney ejected him.

"I'm going to tell him (Maloney) anytime he wants to challenge me," Scott said. "He knew he missed it and couldn't stand the intimidation."

"The pitcher Splittorff was wasting that ball," Scott said. "He wanted it outside to try to come back and get me with a breaking ball. If he (Maloney) can make that call on me every time up and I don't say nothin', he's going to think I don't know where the ball is."

"When you're in the big leagues and don't do the job, what do they do with you? They send you to the minors," Scott continued. "Why can't it hold true for umpires? In a situation like that, with the go-ahead run on, an umpire don't show me much if he don't bear down."

But after the game, head umpire Larry Napp said Scott was ejected for making an obscene gesture toward some fans on the first-base side of the field.

Scott, the American League's No. 4 man in runs batted in, was replaced by John Felske, a .155 hitter. Felske came up in the eighth as the potential tying run—the score was just 4-2 at the time—and struck out.

Crandall said he couldn't tell from his position in the dugout whether the pitch was outside. Asked if he planned to discipline Scott for ignoring his order to calm down, Crandall said, "That'll be between George and I."

Bobby Knoop opened the Royals' eighth with a double and Splittorff was safe when Lonborg fumbled his bunt. Otis hit his 11th home run of the season one out later.

Syracuse Tourney To Open Friday

SYRACUSE — The opening round of the Syracuse Invitational Softball Tournament is scheduled for here Friday night. Three games will be played.

Maplewood will face Mount Olive in the 6:30 p.m. opener; host Syracuse tangles with East Sedalia Baptist at 8 p.m., while Smithton Baptist and Versailles Baptist round out the first night's slate at 9:30 p.m.

The other first-round contest will be played at 2 p.m. Saturday. That game features Flat Creek Baptist taking on Nazarene.

The eight-team tourney will continue through Monday.

Bill Olds Is Impressive At Wet 'Husker Drills

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Drizzling rain didn't keep the Nebraska Cornhuskers from scrimmaging 90 minutes Wednesday but it caused the emphasis to be on ground attack.

Fullback Bill Olds broke loose on several long runs despite the slippery footing. Quarterback Dave Humm, hampered by a bruised thigh, completed two of six passes. Another scrimmage is set for Saturday.

and our offense hasn't been as sharp as we had hoped, but it's not because of lack of effort."

The Kansas Jayhawks started preparing a defense against Washington State's quarterback option play, while the offense worked on WSU's "bump and run" pass defense.

In Iowa State's first game-type scrimmage, Dave McCurry ran back two punts 47 and 60 yards for touchdowns as the first string routed the reserves 59-0. Quarterback George Amundson hit tight end Keith Krepfle on touchdown passes of nine and 12 yards.

Coach Johnny Majors said, "Over-all, we made too many mistakes, but I thought the offensive and defensive lines showed some progress."

Oklahoma's players elected center Tom Brahaney and halfback Greg Pruitt as co-captains. After a lack-luster practice Tuesday, the Sooners roared through a workout on goaline play Wednesday.

Defensive coach Larry Lacewell apparently has his first team set, but still is experimenting with back-up players and has expressed concern about lack of depth.

Missouri's squad ran through a brisk practice while entertaining the Big Eight Skywriters.

Tommy Reamon, twice the Junior College Back of the Year at Fort Scott, Kan., was asked about being listed behind Bill Ziegler.

"I've never been No. 2 anywhere. I don't expect to stay there long," Reamon said. "I've got to get used to the system. When we get going I'll be in there."

Cherry Top QB

Onofrio Says Tigers Won't Be a Pushover

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri Coach Al Onofrio hinted today that the Tigers are not going to be pushovers in Big Eight Conference football this season.

"I am pleased with the progress that our team has made," Onofrio said. "If we continue this improvement, we're going to win some football games."

"Our backs are quick. We won't be afraid to play any of them in the first game. The offensive line is the strongest area of our team. Most of these linemen have started at one time or another, and all are lettermen."

Onofrio, who has installed the wishbone, referred to such running backs as sophomore Bill Ziegler and junior college transfers Leroy Moss and Tommy Reamon and fullback Don Johnson.

John Cherry, another junior college transfer, will be the quarterback although two others, Tony Gillick and Ray Smith, also may see plenty of action.

Johnson is the only one who has played Big Eight varsity football. He rushed for 360 yards on 98 carries a year ago to lead the Missouri ground game.

"We would have used Ziegler last year," Onofrio said, "if we could have used freshmen. We have confidence in our quarterbacks. We feel real good about our quarterback situation."

"Cherry is a strong runner and a strong passer. Gillick is quicker although he isn't a picture passer."

Onofrio thinks the shift of Jack Bastable, a senior, from tailback to split end will give the Tigers an outstanding pass receiver.

"Bastable has adapted himself to that position," the coach added, "and we think he'll do a good job."

Bastable caught 16 passes as a running back last season. Junior John Kelsey, back at tight end, grabbed 11 for 141 yards.

The interior of the offensive line consists of senior center Scott Sodergren and four juniors, tackles Jim Schnietz and Kelley Curbow, and guards Mike Levick and Scott Anderson.

Missouri has had to overhaul its defense, in past years one of the toughest in the conference, almost entirely. Only Bob Orsi, guard and linebacker, returns from the 1971 defense which wound up fifth in Big Eight team statistics.

Two sophomores likely will be included on the Bengals' first defensive unit, tackle Dennis Vanarsdall and linebacker Bob Keeney. Bob Pankey, a junior who has never lettered, will be the safety.

Now Wait a Minute

Larry Bowe, left, is pulled away from an argument with the plate umpire in Wednesday night's game in Houston with the Astros by teammate Greg Lusinski. Bowe was removed from the game after the incident. The Phillies went down to defeat as Houston beat 21-game winner Steve Carlton, 5-3. (UPI)

Cards Send Maxvill To the Oakland A's

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "It's part of the game," a smiling Dal Maxvill said. "You have to be prepared for it. I've had fun here, now I'll have fun there."

Maxvill's words came only minutes after the 33-year-old shortstop, a 10-season veteran with the St. Louis Cardinals, was traded Wednesday to the Oakland A's of the American League.

It marked still another in a series of moves designed by general manager Bing Devine to restructure the Cards and left only two holdovers from the 1967-68 club pennant winners.

"It sure seems like time has gone fast," said the slim Maxvill, who became the Cards' regular shortstop in 1966 and held the post through most of seven seasons despite a light bat.

Rated among the top fielding shortstops in the National League, Maxvill had compensated for a .219 career batting mark with glove work that included an N.L.-leading .982 fielding average at his position in 1970.

"The time has come for us to look ahead," said Devine, whose deal was the fifth he has negotiated with Oakland. "We have a lot of young players, some of them the best we've ever had, and we might as well find out what they can do."

Only 72 hours earlier the Cards had sent veteran Matty Alou to the A's for outfielder Bill Voss and a minor league pitcher.

This time the Cards got first-year infielder Joe Lindsey, who was hitting .259 in 36 games at Birmingham of the Southern League and a player to be named later.

"I can understand that," Maxvill said in regard to Devine's plans. "I'm 33, and they want players that can be with them in the future."

Maxvill's departure leaves only Bob Gibson and Lou Brock from the Cards' '68 N.L. champions. Gibson, Brock and Joe Torre are also the team's only holdovers from as recent as 1969.

Julius Caesar went right up with dummy's king of clubs and led a low heart. East ducked and Caesar's queen won that trick. A second heart was played and Brutus, sitting East, was in with the ace.

He led a low trump. Caesar looked over at Cassius, sitting West, and noted his lean and hungry look. Caesar also reflected that it was the Ides of March and that a soothsayer had warned him that finesses were not going to work for him on that fateful day.

With everything behaving nicely, Caesar could win the rest of the tricks. He decided to see what he could do about making his contract with all finesses wrong. He rose with his ace of trumps, led a club to dummy's ace; discarded his last club on dummy's high heart and proceeded to take and lose the diamond finesse.

Cassius was on lead but could find nothing better than a diamond return. Caesar won; ruffed his low diamond; finally tried and lost the trump finesse but was still home with his contract.

Had Caesar tried a first round finesse in trumps, Cassius would have taken his queen and led a trump back; later on Cassius would get in with the king of diamonds and lead a third trump.

After this, Caesar would be unable to ruff his last diamond because dummy would be out of trumps.

Economics Seen As Moderate Trend

By EDMOND Le BRENTON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — George McGovern, ditching the much-disputed idea of a $1,000 "demogrant" for everyone and saying he would like a conservative Southerner to head the Treasury in his administration, appeared today to have reinforced his bid to moderates in the Democratic party and the electorate at large.

The Democratic presidential candidate's new proposals, delivered in a tight-packed speech Tuesday to the New York Society of Security Analysts, met an understandably mixed reaction.

Such tough tax elements as a proposal to end the favorable treatment of capital gains went over, as one analyst put it, like a lead balloon.

But a number of McGovern's Wall Street audience were intrigued by his surprise announcement that, if he were elected, he would offer the Treasury secretaryship to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Mills is regarded on Capitol Hill as a pragmatist but essentially a conservative. Reached at his home in Kensett, Ark., he did not reject out of hand the possibility of serving in a McGovern administration.

"If he's elected and actually offered it to me, I'd have to think about it," Mills said.

Arthur M. Moren Jr., investment officer for the Chemical Bank of New York, commented that McGovern's tax proposals had not won much support on Wall Street but that the mention of Mills was received enthusiastically because there is "great respect for Mills in the financial community."

Dropping the idea of welfare reform through a $1,000 a person allocation that would be recouped in taxes on the affluent and comfortable, McGovern outlined a plan not unlike President Nixon's, but with a bigger family income base — $4,000 for four persons instead of $2,400. Details were left vague, with the explanation they still were to be worked on.

Other elements of the program McGovern outlined were:

—A $22 billion tax reform package, to be phased in by 1975. Beside taxation of capital gains at regular rates and at the owner's death, it includes a federal subsidy to induce states and cities to discontinue issuance of bonds with tax exempt interest, elimination of the present petroleum depletion allowance and one-year drilling chargeoff, repeal of speeded up depreciation, special real estate writeoffs, favorable treatment of income earned by foreign and export subsidiaries, nonfarmers' agricultural tax shelters along with, ultimately, some tightening of the investment credit.

—Also proposed, though not as an immediate revenue increase, was a new system of estate and gift taxes with rates, like those of the income tax, based on an individual's receipts rather than the size of the estate.

—Reduction of the top-bracket tax rate from 70 per cent to 48 per cent.

—A $15 billion federal contribution to the cost of local schools, to relieve the property tax.

—A $10 billion federal contract program to stimulate the private sector and a $6 billion plan to create public service jobs for a million unemployed.

—Extension and liberalization of Social Security benefits, with financing from Treasury general funds, to reduce welfare rolls by 3 million.

McGovern said the added costs of his program would be more than covered by a $22 billion tax pickup he envisaged for 1975, plus $30 billion savings he expected to make by then in the defense budget.

In presenting his new tax projects, McGovern appeared sensitive to criticism of his earlier proposals as bearing heavily not only on the rich, but on incomes as low as $12,000 or $15,000.

He emphasized his belief that, if his present program went into effect, "no American whose income comes from wages and salaries would pay one penny more in taxes than he does now."

Moreover, he said, because his reforms are aimed at specific preferences, much ordinary investment income and inheritance would be unaffected.

Comment on McGovern's new emphases to some extent followed party lines. Economist Pierre Rinfret, a Nixon adviser, said, "It is obvious that the senator realizes the horrible mistakes of his earlier economic proposals."

But Prof. Paul Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a McGovern supporter, said the candidate "has come to concrete terms with what is important and what is unimportant... His tax package is much more feasible than it was before."

The Farming Scene

National Farm Union Makes Secrecy Charge

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Farmers Union says the Agriculture Department has engaged in "vest-pocket secrecy" and has allowed conflicts of interest during recent wheat sales to the Soviet Union by large exporting companies.

Tony T. Dechant, NFU president, said Tuesday he has asked President Nixon and Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to stop the practices.

A department spokesman said there is no plan at the moment to investigate the allegations.

"The private-club atmosphere that has been created by grain-trade officials moving in and out of the Department of Agriculture and the administration constitutes a conflict of interest of the worst kind," Dechant said in a statement.

In recent months, Dechant said, two top USDA officials have moved to high posts with grain-exporting companies, while two from private firms have taken jobs in the administration.

Dechant said he referred to former Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Clarence D. Palmby, who resigned last June to work for Continental Grain Co., New York, and former USDA export sales manager Clifford G. Pulvermacher, who retired and went to work for Bunge Corp., New York.

Both companies are sharing in grain sales to the Soviet Union, now estimated to total around $1 billion during the first year's operations.

A three-year, $750-million credit arrangement with the Soviets was announced by the White House on July 8, but recent wheat sales are expected to run the total far more than that in the first year.

Dechant also said George Shanklin, now assistant sales manager of the export Marketing Service in USDA, came into the job from Bunge. Another switch, Dechant said, involved William Pearce, a deputy White House trade representative, who formerly was with Cargill & Co., Minneapolis, another larger exporter.

Dechant said big exporters have been "pry to advance information" concerning government export subsidy and credit dealings.

"The benefit of this information has made windfall profits possible through 1 purchase of wheat before prices went up and 2 speculating in the wheat futures market," Dechant said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says farm productivity continues to rise as the number of farmers becomes smaller and those remaining increase their efficiency.

One way to measure it, officials say, is to use a head-count method.

In 1950, one farm worker produced enough food and fiber for himself and 15 others. Two of the others lived overseas. In 1971, one worker produced enough for 47 others, including seven who lived abroad.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is going to buy an unspecified amount of canned applesauce and juice for distribution to needy families and school-lunch programs.

Details of the offer to buy the products will be mailed to canners, officials said Tuesday. The amount bought will depend on prices and quantities offered, the announcement said.

The department regularly buys commodities for donation to needy families and to school-lunch and other child-feeding programs.

Youngster Dies From Gun Wound

HILLSBORO, Mo. (AP) — Ricky Fischer, 13, of High Ridge, Mo., apparently died after having been shot while playing with a handgun belonging to the father of another youth, Jefferson County authorities said here Wednesday.

Police said they had been told Tuesday, the day the boy died at a hospital in Kirkwood, that young Fischer had fallen from his bicycle earlier in the day and collapsed later at the home of his friend, Gary Mekan, 13, also of High Ridge.

Police said however that the Mekan youth was questioned further when the St. Louis County Medical Examiner's office found a bullet lodged in Fischer's shoulder.

Fischer was shot while he and the Mekan youth were handling a gun belonging to Mekan's father, Gilbert J. Long, county juvenile officer, said.
